U. S. REJECTS FRENCH DEBT CONDITION

FIREMAN DIES, 5 ARE HURT IN CHURCH BLAZE

Battalion Chief Virnstein Succumbs to Injuries at Casualty.

FALLING-ROOF DEBRIS PERILS ENTIRE CREW

Two Men Hit on Backs Are Still at Hospital; Others Released.

HERO HOLDS BURNING MASS FROM VICTIMS

Son of Dying Leader, Called From Ball Game, Aids Fight for Life.

Battalion Chief John H. Virnstein was killed while fighting a fire which yesterday destroyed the old Campbell A. M. E. Church, 2560 Nichols avenue southeast. He was fatally injured by falling debris when the roof of the structure collapsed, striking him and five other firemen, who were not seriously injured.

Heroic work of Acting Sergt. K. S. Cussler, of No. 18 Engine Company, who braced himself against the burning roof to prevent its total collapse, is believed to have saved the lives of the other three firemen.

Battalion Chief Virnstein was not believed to be seriously hurt when first taken to Casualty Hospital. Immediately after his admission it was found he was suffering from internal injuries and possible fractures of the spine and pelvis. He died one hour after admission to the hospital.

Son Called From Game.

Dr. John Ellsworth Virnstein, son of the battalion chief, was attending the Washington-Philadelphia game at the stadium when his father was injured. He was summoned by amplifiers at the park and hurried to the club offices where he was informed of his father's injuries.

Dr. Virnstein rushed from the park to Casualty Hospital, where he aided the hospital staff in trying to save his father's life. Mrs. Rose Virnstein, wife of the battalion chief, was summoned from their summer home at Piney Point, Md., but was unable to reach the hospital before he died, with his son at his bedside.

Cussler's daring act was witnessed by hundreds of spectators who gathered on crowded Nichols avenue to watch the fight against the flames.

Other firemen injured were:

Fireman William Manual, of No. 18 Engine Company, 923 Fourteenth street southeast, contusions of the back and neck; Fireman William H. Boswell, of No. 8 Engine Company, aid to Chief Virnstein, 414 Seward street southeast, possible fractured ribs, and Private R. O. Russell, of No. 8 Truck, 735 Alabama avenue southeast, shock and effects of smoke inhalation; Fireman C. W. Ridley, of No. 25 Engine Company, 327 East Capitol street, injuries to the back; Fireman John Albers, of No. 25 Engine Company, slight injuries.

Two Stay In Hospital.

With the exception of Manual and Ridley all were released from the hospital last night.

All these firemen, with the exception of Russell, were taken to Casualty Hospital. Russell, who did not believe he was seriously injured, was removed to his home. Russell is under treatment at his home by a private physician.

All of the firemen, except Ridley and Albers, were removed from under the roof, but these two were trapped. Lieut. T. H. Green and Private N. O. Teats, of No. 25 Engine Company, went under the debris and released them.

Cussler, interviewed by a Post reporter shortly after his heroic act, was leaning heavily against a fire truck. He said that he was feeling "pretty badly" but did not think he would have to go to a hospital.

None of the firemen received burns, and the fact that they escaped such an injury is believed due to Cussler's pluck in preventing the burning roof from falling.

Cussler Dashes Through Smoke.

The small group of firemen, together with Capt. Jeremiah Sullivan, of No. 8 Truck Co., who escaped injury, were inside the church fighting the roof blaze. Nichols avenue was choked with traffic and spectators when the cry once arose, "the roof's falling." A wave of panic swept through the crowd.

Cussler dashed from a group of firemen outside the church through the smoke-curtained entrance to find the flaming roof already crushing the shoulders of his comrades.

With a mighty heave of his shoulders he lifted the roof—a flimsy wooden one—while Capt. Sullivan, Fireman Russell and others dragged the three injured men outside. They were taken quickly to Casualty Hospi-

Von Elm, Burke Tie Again in Open Golf

Detroit Star Sinks 12-Foot Putt on Thirty-sixth Hole, for 149; Makes 4 Birdies in Row; Plays Again Today.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

Inverness Club, Toledo, July 5 (A. P.).—Through sweltering heat and a thunderstorm, George Von Elm, the business man of golf, today staged another spectacular finish to hold his professional rival, Billie Burke, to a deadlock for the second successive day and prolong what has developed into a record-smashing battle of stroking endurance for the open golf championship of the United States.

On almost the same spot where he stepped up yesterday to hole a 15-foot putt on the same green to bring about a tie with Burke over the regulation 72-hole route, Von Elm again displayed his marvelous fighting spirit by sinking a 12-footer for a birdie today that brought about the second successive deadlock, after 108 stormy and sensational holes of competition.

They were tied at 292 strokes apiece yesterday. They were still all square at the end of 36 play-off holes today with tallies 149 each and grand totals of 441. They will play another 36 holes tomorrow, starting the rounds at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. (Eastern standard time). If necessary they will continue to play 36 holes per day until one or the other breaks through to end the greatest nonstop flight in the 38-year history of the American open championship.

It looked as though the finish was in sight today on the thirty-fifth hole of a ding-dong battle where Burke canned a 10-foot putt to keep his slim margin of a single stroke as Von Elm missed an 8-footer for a birdie 3. They had fought all day long, with the tides of fortune shifting in sensational fashion. With one blazing streak, Von Elm had reeled off four successive birdies to wipe out Burke's four-stroke lead at the twenty-fifth hole and assume a two-stroke margin himself.

Burke had staged a comeback of his own, pulling himself level again with a birdie at the thirty-second hole and

NATS TRIUMPH OVER A'S, 4-2, BEFORE 27,000

Marberry Wins Duel With Earnshaw; Lead Cut to 4½ Games.

COCHRANE HITS 10TH HOMER OF SEASON

West and H. Rice Star in Outfield; Spencer and Kuhel Get 2 Hits.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

Manager Walter Johnson's hopefuls, who did not hit their weight on their last road trip, were credited with but six hits off George Earnshaw yesterday, but, nevertheless, they delighted a gallery of nearly 27,000 cash customers by turning in a 4-to-2 victory over the Athletics, the triumph netting a full game gain over the leaders and cutting their first-place margin to four and a half games.

One of the reasons why the Nats won was Fred Marberry, who toed the slab against the men of Mack and held them to eight hits, no more than two coming in any one inning. The big pitcher, oddly enough, beat his foes by cleverly mixing curves, slow balls and half-speed ones and called upon his speed on practically no occasions.

Much of the time it was a case of catching the slugging Mackmen off their stride and either unbalanced or totally unprepared for the type of ball served them. This was not the case on one occasion, though, for Mickey Cochrane found one to his liking while opening the sixth session and the result was a drive over the right field wall for the aliens' final run of the game.

Macks' Infield Aids.

While the Nats benefitted from but six hits, they received lots of help from the Philadelphia infield, Earnshaw himself contributing two of the four errors charged, the result being that three of the natives' runs were tainted. Errors are as much a part of the game as are hits, though, so the Nats deserve plenty of credit for the victory.

It was a real battle throughout with some timely hitting, some scintillating fielding plays and good pitching on the part of both moundmen. When the Mackmen broke the ice in the second, a wild pitch by Marberry being responsible for the run scored, moans could be heard all over the massive stadium, but these were changed to cheers in the third and again in the fourth, when a brace of tallies in each of these rounds put the residents three to the merry, and they held most of this margin until the end.

In all Washington-Philadelphia games the Macks have provided a thrill in the ninth, and this was the case yesterday when Miller led off with a double. Marberry "stole the show" from here on, however, by disposing of three pinch-hitters in a row. First Roger Cramer hit for Dykes. He meant business and it was fortunate for the Nats that his hard-hit drive was aimed directly at Manush. The next two,

WORLD FLIERS ARE DUE HERE THIS MORNING

Elaborate Day Is Planned in Honor of Post and Gatty.

PRESIDENT TO LEAD CAPITAL'S WELCOME

Luncheon at White House, Press Club Reception and Banquet on Program.

America's record-breaking Magellans of the air, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, will receive today the homage of the Nation for the accomplishment they have written on history's pages by their unprecedented flight. They are conquerors who will chain Washington to the wheels of the chariot of their accomplishment today.

They will lunch with the President; they will be the guests of the Nation's press at a reception by the National Press Club; they will be the guests of honor at a dinner tendered by the business and professional leaders of the National Capital, to say nothing of being the recipients of the impromptu expressions of admiration which will be showered on them by individuals.

Just what time the fliers will arrive in Washington this morning was not known last night by the reception committee. F. C. Hall, millionaire Oklahoma oil well owner, whose financial backing made possible their sensational round-the-world flight, told Lawrence E. Williams, chairman of the aviation committee of the Washington Board of Trade, that the fliers would arrive at 10:30 o'clock at the Washington Hoover Aairport, at the south end of the Highway Bridge.

Early Arrival Indicated.

Press reports received from New York last night by the Associated Press and the United Press said that the fliers intended to take off from the Floyd Bennett Airfield at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time this morning. Their plane is speedy and if they take off at that time—which would be 7 o'clock Washington time—they will land here before 9 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Williams last night dispatched messages to the fliers addressed to various points, in the hope they would receive one or another message telling them that the official program for their reception contemplated their arrival at the Hoover Air Field at 10 o'clock this morning.

None the less Mr. Williams got busy and informed his official reception committee that they should be on the field before 9 o'clock to greet the fliers.

Escorted by a troop of Cavalry, police and various dignitaries of official and business Washington, the fliers will leave the airport, cross the Highway Bridge, proceed up Fourteenth street to Pennsylvania avenue to be lodged in the Willard Hotel. It has been planned to give them an opportunity to see themselves as others saw them and witness a special showing of news pictures of their flight in Keith's Theater. This is to be im-

Pope and Duce Agree To Avert Open Break

Mussolini Professes to be Unperturbed by Criticism Alleged in Pontiff's Encyclical; Vatican Claims it Was Merely Church Defense.

Rome, July 5 (A.P.).—The threatened break between the government of Italy and the Vatican will be averted, it was learned on good authority today, through a decision of Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini to avoid any precipitate action.

Premier Mussolini's position, it is known, might be expressed in the phrase "the State goes on its way" regardless of criticism of Pope Pius in his encyclical.

The pope, for his part, is continuing to maintain that the church is "suffering persecution," and it was said that he is refusing to consider, for the moment at least, the withdrawal of the papal nuncio to Rome. About 150,000 copies of his encyclical were distributed in the churches of Rome today and additional copies are being printed for distribution thruoghout the provinces. Although the government considers the encyclical an attack on Fascism the pontiff regards it as merely a defense of the church.

The pope and the premier, therefore, stand exactly where they did, but diplomatically their points of view are so different that neither side sees any hope of adjustment. The Italian reply to the Vatican's last note, it is said, will emphasize the impossibility of the situation and again protest against the pontiff's speeches, and particularly against his encyclical, as irregular.

The government probably will avoid forcing the issue, it is believed, because it has nothing to gain, having already achieved its purpose in the closing of the Catholic clubs, which it considers political organizations.

The Vatican is expected to find the Italian reply even less satisfactory than previous notes from the government, so that the diplomatic negotiations may reach a deadlock and drag

PAYMENTS IN KIND BASIS OF DISPUTE

Lone Point Is Regarded as Critical Issue in Negotiations.

AMERICA ASKS FUNDS BE RELOANED BERLIN

Germany Pledges Assurance Against Using Money for Armament.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover rejected last night a French plan to give unlimited freedom of action to technical experts who will work out the details of an intergovernmenetal debt moratorium.

A memorandum giving the American position, for presentation to France by Secretary Mellon in Paris, was cabled last night by the State Department.

The Chief Executive suddenly cut short his week-end holiday and hurried back to Washington yesterday from his Rapidan camp. He had before him France's objection to America's latest suggestion in the lengthy Franco-American negotiations over a debt postponement plan. America proposed that the experts' powers be limited by instructing them to work out details "within the spirit of the President's proposal."

Point Regarded as Crucial.

A high administration authority described the divergency as a critical and crucial point. Until it was adjusted, he added, the two governments could not be said to be in agreement on principle. It was the lone remaining point of principle remaining between the governments.

The American Government will inform France that it has no desire to disturb existing contracts under the payments in kind provision of the Young plan. It considers, however, that this type of payments is merely a device for indirect reparations payments by Germany.

In effect the payments in kind operate as follows:

A French builder is constructing a steel plant in Germany. He buys steel from a German merchant. The German government pays the German merchant for the steel. The French buyer in turn pays the French government for the steel. Thus the German government actuall pays out monies and the French treasury receives them indirectly.

Hoover Would Instruct Experts.

The United States is willing that this type of payment of reparations continue, but it contends the money must be reloaned to Germany. A similar contention was offered and accepted when France proposed that Germany continue paying unconditional annuities under the Young plan. President Hoover feels that the technical experts who are to work out this and other details, however, must be instructed to adhere to the spirit of the American plan.

The French objected to such instructions being given, with relation to payments in kinds discussions.

The United States it was said, will stand firmly on its policy that the spirit of the President's plan must be adhered to in working out details, insofar as it applies to all interested Nations.

German assurances that the suspended reparations payments would be used only for economic purposes were received yesterday at the State Department.

Armament Assurance Given.

23,000 COAL MINERS ORDERED TO STRIKE

A. F. of L. Union Frowns on Walkout in West Virginia Area.

Charleston, W. Va., July 5 (A.P.). Officials of the West Virginia Mine Workers in a statement today said that the Kanawha Coal Field of southern West Virginia would be "tied up completely tomorrow" when a strike call issued Friday is to become effective.

The statement said that 23,000 miners would be affected by the strike call, which was issued avowedly to enforce the union's request for a conference with the mine operators on wages and working conditions. At workers' meetings throughout the field today, miners were reported to have pledged themselves to halt work at dawn. Plans for picketing roads leading to the mines were discussed.

For the past six weeks, a strike of coal miners variously estimated as involving from 20,000 to 40,000 men has partly tied up operations in eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia but has not affected the southern part of this State. Wages, working conditions and union recognition have been the issues.

The West Virginia Mine Workers, the organization calling the strike in the southern West Virginia field, is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor or the United Mine Workers of America. The U. M. W. has condemned the proposed strike in this area as unwarranted and untimely.

GOLF STAR, 5 OTHERS DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Craft Hits Mountainside on Pleasure Jaunt in California.

Lucerne, Lake County, Calif., July 5 (A.P.).—George Ritchie, San Francisco golf star, four other men, and a woman were killed in an airplane crash here today.

Other victims were Jack Kerrigan and Leon Keller,, also San Francisco golfers; Louis M. Becker, 55, wealthy promoter; his fiancee, Mrs. Zigmunda Lax, 35, Long Beach, and the pilot, William Hoffman, Lucerne, Calif.

The plane in which they were riding took off for a sightseeing trip. The motor failed about 2 miles from Lucerne and the plane crashed into a mountainside with terrific force.

The ship had been in the air about 20 minutes when the crash occurred. It was completely demolished.

The three golfers, with George Horan, another San Francisco golfer, had played exhibition matches over the holiday at Lucerne.

When the matches were completed, Becker asked them to be his guests in a sightseeing trip over a lake.

Horan refused to make the flight, stating before the take-off, "I'll take a rain check on my flight."

Swimmer Rescued After 4 Lose Lives

Quartet Drowns in Try to Save Man Later Taken Out by Guards.

Gary, Ind., July 4 (A.P.).—Four men lost their lives in Lake Michigan today attempting to rescue Joseph Scalamara, 21, Chicago, who was held helpless by the undertow. Scalamara later was rescued by life guards.

The four who were drowned were D. A. Curry, Hobart, Ind.; Mathew Heinrich, Gary; Samuel Singer, Indiana Harbor, and Joseph Vondrak, Berwyn, Ill.

Scalamara, despite the high breakers, had ventured far into the water. When he got into difficulties the four men, one after another, plunged in to his rescue and each, in turn, fell victim to the undertow, which Scalamara survived until the life guards reached him.

Girl, 15, Falls Dead as Body Of Brother Goes Into Grave

Elsie Stoddard, Hagerstown, Slumps at Feet of Parents in Funeral Services Held for Potomac River Victim.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., July 5.—As she watched the body of her brother, Walter, who was drowned in the Potomac River Thursday night, being lowered into its grave here this afternoon, Elsie Stoddard, 15, fell dead at the feet of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stoddard, in Rose Hill Cemetery.

When the girl pitched forward, her parents rushed her to their home, believing that she had merely fainted.

A doctor was summoned and he pronounced her dead. Heart trouble was given as the immediate cause of death, superinduced by grief at the tragic demise of her brother.

The parents were grief-stricken at the double tragedy.

Thursday night Walter Stoddard, who was a crack motorcycle racer, met death while in a speed boat on the Potomac.

The boat capsized and young Stoddard was drowned.

Funeral arrangements for Elsie Stoddard were uncompleted tonight.

Chicago Bomb Wrecks Terminal of Elevated

Man Disturbed by Noise of Line Is Arrested in Plot to Destroy Station; Many Lives Endangered.

Chicago June 5 (A.P.).—John Graff, 43, wealthy apartment house operator, who, police said, carried on a feud with the Chicago Rapid Transit Co. because the roar of its elevated trains disturbed his tenants, was arrested tonight in connection with a plot to bomb the company's Howard street terminal.

One bomb exploded in the terminal yards today, tearing up tracks, shattering car windows and endangering lives of citizens living nearby.

Two other bombs, with fuses sputtering, were discovered nearby and extinguished.

The bombs were of such size that an iron cap from the one exploded tore its way through a house located a block away, narrowly missing four sleeping children. The terminal yards were practically deserted at the time, which probably accounted for the fact that there were no casualties.

Police, acting on information supplied by company officials, reported they found in Graff's apartment a portion of a box in which the unexploded bombs were placed. He was taken to police headquarters and held on a technical charge.

Graff, whose 38-apartment building is located adjacent to the terminal, has instituted numerous complaints against the company, police said, charging the screeching of car wheels and the rattling of switches caused his tenants to leave. He denied, vigorously, however, any connection with the plot.

George Bauer, janitor in Graff's building, and Alfred Nelson, janitor in a nearby apartment house, also are being held for questioning.

Rip Tide, Fatal to 17, Still Menaces Coast

Los Angeles, July 5 (A.P.).—A terrific rip tide which caused the drowning of 17 persons in southern California surf yesterday continued today, but lifeguards, enforcing a greater caution on the part of swimmers, reported no additional deaths.

Three persons were reported missing at Brighton Beach, Terminal Island, and a girl was reported missing at Venice. Seven persons drowned yesterday at the Terminal Island resort, and one swimmer who narrowly saved himself from the powerful undertow said he saw at least twenty in distress.

SAVES COMPANION; FISHERMAN DROWNS

Capital Youth Loses Life in Patuxent After Heroic Rescue.

William McVearry, 20, 309 Todd street northeast, was drowned in the Patuxtent River near Solomon's Island, Md., yesterday afternoon after heroically rescuing a fellow member of a fishing party of a dozen young men. The rescued man, John Glascock, 21, and a companion fell overboard when a heavy swell struck the launch from which they were fishing.

John Gleason, 21, the other man thrown into the water was rescued by a younger brother and a young man by the name of Ross. The younger Gleason ran a large splinter into his arm whne thrown against the gunwhale of the boat, but despite the pain assisted Ross in saving his brother.

The drowned man's "buddy," William Wiles, 24, unable to swim, hurled a life preserver at McVearry, who after getting Glascock within reaching distance of the launch, sank exhausted. The boat drifted away from McVearry, who clutched at the preserver when he came up the second time, but he was unable to retain his grasp.

The group left the city about midnight Saturday and was near the end of their holiday when the tragedy occurred. All of the young men live in the same vicinity in the Northeast section.

McVearry employed by the Sanitary Grocery Co. as a clerk, lived at the Todd street address with his mother, Mrs. Florence McVearry and two brothers, John, 23, and Walter, 18.

The younger brother left for Solomon's Island on receiving word of the accident. Mrs. McVearry, who had been at a Chesapeake Bay resort over the week-end, collapsed when informed of the drowning of her son. The boy's father, John McVearry, lives in Texas.

McVearry and Wiles were victims of a holiday accident on Labor Day two years ago. A car they were riding in crashed through a fence on the Defense highway, seriously injuring both. McVearry was a cousin of Frank and George Bromley, Georgetown boys, who drowned in the Potomac River near the Three Sisters about three years ago.

Attempts to recover the body were unsuccessful yesterday, but further efforts to find it were planned for today. The boat from which the crowd was fishing was in charge of Capt. Joseph Sewell, of Broomes Island.

TEMPERANCE BOARD RENEWS DRY STAND

Methodist Episcopal Group Urges More Funds for Enforcement.

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 5 (A. P.).—The Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South today issued a platform reaffirming the church's support of the eighteenth amendment, condemning the divorce evil, deploring existing economic conditions and advocating a reduction of military and naval expenditures to the lowest possible point.

The platform, adopted last week at a meeting presided over by Bishop James Cannon, jr., chairman, was made public at a mass meeting today.

Recording that the board rejoices in the message of President Hoover accompanying the Wickersham report, the platform said he "unequivocally declared opposition to repeal or revision of the eighteneth amendment," and urged Congress to provide whatever men and money may be necessary to make prohibition effective.

"It is the inalienable right of every member, minister or layman to oppose and vote against any candidate who fails to stand for prohibition and other principles approved by the Methodist Episcopal Church South," the document asserted.

Alleged Drunken Driver Taken in 2-Hour Chase

One of Four Montgomery County Policemen Ditched Twice in Pursuit; Five Charges Are Faced by Potomac Man.

A two-hour chase of an alleged drunken driver through the crowded highways and less crowded byways of Montgomery County engaged the attention of four policemen and yesterday afternoon resulted in the arrest of Walter Benson, 22 years old, of Potomac, Md.

Benson is alleged to have ditched Patrolman Windsor Poole on two occasions during the wild ride as the officer pursued him ta a pace that sometimes exceeded 60 miles an hour. Benson faces charges of five violations of the motor vehicle law.

An alarm that a drunken driver was endangering autoists on Bradley Hills boulevard near Bethesda, Md., sent four policemen in pursuit at 2:30 in the afternoon. Sergt. Leroy Rodegers and Patrolmen Robert Howes, Oscar Gaither and Windsor Poole set out in motorcycles and police cars.

Poole picked up the trail of the car and followed it at 50 miles an hour through Potomac, Bethesda, Rockville, back to Potomac and to Trovilah, where he turned onto a dirt road. Twice on the Bradley Hills boulevard, Poole said, he was ditched. On another occasion his mount left the road and went into a field. Poole was uninjured.

Poole, unable to follow the car on the bumpy dirt road, gave up the cellor Bruening to the effect that benefits accruing to Germany under the President's plan would not be used for increasing armaments.

The question was first raised in France's counter proposals and the United States felt it was outside America's province to give assurances on the question.

The German position, outlined in a statement by the German chancellor, Dr. Heinrich Bruening, forwarded by Ambassador Sackett from Berlin, follows:

"In view of the fears which have sprung up in some circles that the amounts released in the German budget by the relief from reparations payments might be used to increase armaments, I declare that an increase in the appropriation for the army and navy during the holiday year has never been contemplated nor will it take place.

"The aggregate alleviations accruing to Germany from the Hoover plan are required and will be used in their entirety to cover the deficits in revenue which are to be expected, to consolidate financial conditions and to save German economic life."

The German statement was received while American officials were studying what they considered to be the last remaining difference with the French government over the moratorium plan.

Details Still Unsettled.

Paris, July 5 (A.P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Ambassador Walter E. Edge discussed the question of reparation payments "in kind" at a long conference with Finance Minister Pierre Flandin at the latter's residence this afternoon.

The conference was the only contact between the reparations moratorium negotiators today.

It was understood that the details of the question still remain to be settled, although the French and American viewpoints have been growing considerably nearer together as the result of the conferences.

Secretary Andrew W. Mellon and Ambassador Walter E. Edge were forced to forego a proposed visit to a friend of Edge in Normany today in order to discuss further President Hoover's debt moratorium and to study a document which was forwarded to the President this morning.

Several times the American officials telephoned to Washington but by evening no direct word had reached them from Hoover's Rapidan camp in Virginia.

Hope for Washington Approval.

Meanwhile, the impression of those in their entourage was decidedly hopeful that Washington would approve their proposed basis for an agreement with France on the reparations moratorium. Mellon and Edge are scheduled to meet the French officials again tomorrow afternoon. Their discussions today were mostly between themselves at the American Embassy.

Premier Pierre Laval escaped to his country home during the day to examine his herd of prize cows, while Foreign Minister Aristide Briand motored down into Normandy to fish at Cocherel.

In its leading editorial the newspaper Le Temps was hopeful that the end of the negotiations was in sight. It declared that France had gone as far as possible in conciliations, trying to give full effect to the Hoover proposal and at the same time to safeguard the interest of Germany's creditors.

Committee of Experts Favored.

"Too many powerful reasons impose upon the Washington Government the necessity of making Hoover's initiative succeed to allow the supposition that divergencies on secondary points might yet compromise the results acquired in principle," the editorial said.

Le Temps rather doubted whether it would be necessary to call a conference of Young plan signatories, saying this would present serious inconveniences. It added that the task, which would be purely of a technical nature, would better be intrusted to treasury experts, or accomplished by direct conversations between the governments.

The Journal des Debats took a pessimistic view of the situation. It said the accord would only serve to open up a period of difficulties, during the course of which the Young plan will be "gravely menaced, not only in theory, but in reality."

The newspaper declared that it feared President Hoover's initiative will better Germany's financial situation only in passing.

Petit Parisien expressed hope that Secretary Mellon will remain in Paris to meet the financiers of other countries if the Young plan signatories are called into conference.

NEW STUDY ORDERED OF POWER CONTROL

Dr. Splawn Will Conduct an Inquiry at Behest of Federal Board.

(Associated Press)

A new study of power company control looking to the possibility of bringing the great electric holding and management corporations under Governmental regulation has been initiated by the Power Commission.

The survey will be conducted by Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, who last Winter ended an investigation of railroad holding companies for the House interstate commerce committee with a recommendation that they be placed under Interstate Commerce Commission supervision. Legislation to put into effect these recommendations failed of passage by Congress.

The power study will be based on those utility operating companies holding licenses from the Federal Government. Their ownership, control and affiliation will be traced all the way up, whether it occurs through stock ownership, management contracts, financing or otherwise. The commission announced yesterday the investigation was voted unanimously last Friday on a motion of Commissioner Williamson, of Washington, seconded by Commissioner Draper, of Wyoming. It is to be completed in four months.

The Federal Trade Commission has been engaged since 1928 in an examination of the entire capital structure of the electric systems which has shown an intricate network of control.

FIREMAN DIES, 3 HURT AS CHURCH IS BURNED

tal by th Rescue Squad and in patrols from the Eleventh Precinct. Russell was taken to his home by another fireman.

Church Is Total Loss.

Although the frame walls of the church were left standing after the fire had been extinguished shortly after 3 o'clock, the Campbell A. M. E. congregation has sustained a complete loss. Damages are estimated roughly at $3,500.

Origin of the fire could not be determined.

One alarm was turned in at 2:29 o'clock. Engine Companies 25, 15 and 18 and No. 8 truck responded. Chief Vernstein was in charge of operations and was relieved by Deputy Chief Charles E. Schrom after he was injured.

Virnstein's Record Brilliant.

Battalion Chief Virnstein's history with the Fire Department is one of brilliance, according to his superiors. He was commended for bravery in the Knickerbocker Theater disaster in 1922 and for his heroism in the Adams Hotel Supply Co. fire fifteen years ago. He was present at all the large fires in the District since 1897 and in 1904 helped fight the great Baltimore fire.

He was appointed to the department March 5, 1897, and was detailed to No. 8 Engine Company, where he served successively as assistant foreman, foreman and as aid to Chief Joseph Parris. In 1908 he was made a captain and remained with No. 8 Engine Company. In 1925 he was placed in charge of the drill school, and two years later was elevated to the position of battalion chief, with headquarters at No. 8 Enginehouse.

For the last ten years he had served as vice president of the Firemen's Relief Association. He was born in Washington, September 1, 1876. He lived at 3600 New Hampshire avenue northwest.

All Survivors Live Here.

In addition to Mrs. Virnstein and Dr. Virnstein, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Powers; four brothers, William, Robert, James and Raymond, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Raley, all of this city.

The Campbell Methodist Episcopal Church was organized directly following the Civil War, on Mount Zion Hill, Anacostia, as an open-air congregation. A building was erected on the site of the burned structure soon thereafter, and rebuilt more than 40 years ago.

It was remodeled in 1905, and later, under the pastorate of Dr. Charles H. Wesley, professor of history at Howard University and now presiding elder of the district, a brick structure adjoining was completed in 1926. The Rev. A. L. Crigler, pastor of the church, has been ill in Walter Reed Hospital for the past fortnight, his place being taken by the Rev. Elmore Wormley.

Torpedoes in Pocket Go Off, Victim Slaps Innocent Man

John Sullivan was walking in Cottage City, Md., yesterday, minding his own business, when he felt an awful whack in the back. Thinking that the pedestrian, walking behind him, was getting personal, he unceremoniously punched the pedestrian's face and felled him.

Even thees extreme measures failed to tsop the thumping. Then it dawned on him that 50 torpedo firecrackers were exploding in his pocket. Sullivan began flailing his thighs.

Casualty Hospital internes, where he was brought later, dressed severe burns on his right, and a tailor will have to take care of the large rent in his trousers, where a pocket was blown out.

Sullivan lives at 1619 Bladensburg road northwest. The identity of the recipient of the wallop was not learned, but Sullivan admits the punch.

Alaskan Mineral Output Declines

Gold and Silver, However, Are Mined in Increasing Quantities.

(Associated Press.)

Alaska's mineral production last year showed a substantial decline in value from 1929, although gold and coal were mined in increasing quantities.

Figures announced yesterday by the geological survey showed a shrinkage in value of minerals produced from $18,066,000 to $13,812,000. Gold, however, increased from $7,750,000 to $8,476,000 and coal showed a gain of more than $100,000 to $631,000. The biggest loss was in copper, which fell from $7,130,000 to $4,244,600.

The decrease, said the survey, "is interpreted as being due not only to the very low prics that prevailed but also to the deterrent effect of these new prices on new entrpriss and in dissuading oprators from making even as large an output as they ordinarily would from the mines already operating."

Woman Hurt When Bus Stops to Avoid Crash

Mrs. Nellie Langley, 50 years old, of 225 H street northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when she was thrown against a fare box on a Washington Railway and Electric Co. bus, when the bus was stopped suddenly to avoid collision with a taxicab.

Mrs. Langley boarded the bus a few blocks from her home. As it started, it was forced to stop, and Mrs. Langley was thrown against the box. She is under treatment at Casualty Hospital for injuries to the left shoulder and back.

Except for the dissolution of 15,000 Catholic clubs, the church's position in Italy is the same as before the controversy, although there is admitted to be considerable unrest among the people. The pontiff's declaration that the Catholics may make a mental reservation in favor of the church when taking the oath of allegiance to the Duce is said to have increased this unrest, but Mussolini is described as unperturbed and confident of his power.

The Pope discussed the situation this morning with his nuncio, Mgr. Borgongini-Duca, but the next move is considered Italy's, with a note replying to the Vatican.

The papal troops were increased today by the swearing in of 150 recruits in the Palatine Guard. The oath was taken in the Vatican Gardens, making the strength of the guard of honor 580.

mediately after they have been lodged in the hotel.

Plans for Welcoming.

From the motion picture show of themselves the fliers are to return to their hotel, accompanied by the escorting committee which greeted them, among whom will be Mr. Williams, George W. Offutt, jr., president of the Board of Trade, and other officers, members of the board's aviation committee; Bascom N. Timmons, vice president of the National Press Club; William C. Murphy and other members of the board of governors of the club who were designated by Eugene S. Leggett, president of the club, as a reception committee. Various officials of the Government are expected to be on hand to take part in the greeting the National Capital gives to the fliers when they set foot on Washington soil.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, District Commissioner, will represent the District government in the reception committee, and give to the fliers the symbolic keys of the city.

The fliers are to go to the White House for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Post and Mrs. Getty and Mr. Hall and his daughter, Mrs. Winnie Mae Fain, after whom the world-circling plane was named, are also to be guests at the White House luncheon, which will be attended by Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Secretary of War Hurley, their assistant secretaries having to do with aviation, and others. So rapidly have preparations been made that last night White House officials were unable to say just who would be present at the luncheon.

6,000 Seats at Reception.

After the White House luncheon the fliers and their wives and other members of their party may find a few moments to rest in the privacy of their hotel.

The reception of the National Press Club will be tendered them in the Washington Auditorium. There are 6,000 seats available in the Auditorium, but every one is expected to be filled when President Leggett calls the meeting to order. Lee Poe Hart, chairman of the entertainment committee of the club, has called all of the 80 members of his committee to participate in the ceremonies in the Auditorium, though ordinary procedure would leave whatever duties devolving on the reception committee to the eighteen members of the subcommittee on receptions.

Distribution of tickets for the Press Club reception in the Auditorium will begin at 9 o'clock this morning, with the number of tickets allotted to each member of the club limited so that all members will be accommodated.

The official day of the fliers will be ended with a dinner tendered them by the Board of Trade in the Willard Hotel at 7:30 o'clock at night. There will be seats for 900 persons at the dinner and Robert J. Cottrell, secretary of the board, has charge of distribution of tickets to board members.

After that het fliers will be permitted to go to bed.

Mrs. Post and Mrs. Gatty and Mr. Hall are expected to fly here this morning but not in the famous Winnie Mae plane which shot around the Northern half of the globe. The Winnie Mae is rated by the Department of Commerce as a two-passengen plane, due to the installation of fuel and oil tanks ni the cabin, and hte wives and friends of the fliers will have to ride in another plane.

The fliers and hteir party are expected to sleep tonight ni Washington. Tomorrow they are expected to fly back to New York to receive additional honors. The National Aeronautics Association, of which Senator Hiram Binghom, of Connecticut, is chairman, is to present them in New York with an honorary membership and a memento, a jealously guarded honor which has been awarded only four times in the past.

The National Press Club, too, will give hte fliers a trophy. It will be a globe for each, inscribed with an account of the occasion and the accomplishment of the recipients.

Farm Board Called Alone in Its Policy

Evans Says Even Chiefs of G. O. P. Dislike Handling of Wheat.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Evans asserted yesterday "the only people in accord with the Federal Farm Board's handling of its wheat holdings are the members of the Farm Board itself."

"It has been the Administration contention that criticism of the beneficent body under whose manipulations wheat has reached the lowest level in modern history was limited to Democratic partisanship by discrediting the board and seeking to smear President Hoover, the Montanan said in a statement issued through the Democratic national Committee.

"Now the spearhead of Farm Board criticism is composed of Vice President Curtis, Senator Capper, of Kansas, and Senator Watson, of Indiana.

Since the Farm Board announced last week it would not sell more than 5,000,000 bushels of its wheat holdings monthly, the three Republicans have demanded that this policy be further modified to keep all the wheat from the market for the present.

Small Child Injured Running Before Auto

A 3-year-old child was injured yesterday when it was knocked down and pinned under an automobile in front of his home, 4402 Elm avenue, Chevy Chase.

Charles D. Hagen, of Kensington, Md., was driving west on Elm street when the child, Andrew Campbell, ran in front of his car, Montgomery County police reported. The boy was taken to a physician's office and it was found he had suffered only cuts and bruises. Policeman J. E. Shoemaker, who investigated, said he made no case against Mr. Hagen because two witnesses testified the child ran in front of the car and the accident was unavoidable.

Beauty Treatment Ordered For Miss Liberty's Visage

Goddess of Bedloes Island, Seemingly Afflicted With Double Chin, Sunken Cheeks and Rings Around Eyes, to Get Facial by New Lighting.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Miss Liberty, of New York Harbor, is to take the lamp treatment for her beauty after dark.

The future shadow has crept up almost all over Bartholdi's famous goddess in the most unflattering places. At night she appears to have a double chin, sunken cheeks and rings around the eyes from staying up until dawn lighting the way for sailors.

So the United States Army, whose ward she is, announced today the statue is to be illuminated by a new wrinkle reducing battery of floodlights.

Furthermore there are to be incandescent jewels in her crown. In its 21 windows are to be installed additional lights, made to sparkle by a blinker system.

The old lighting system is responsible for uncomplimentary remarks made about the Statue of Liberty's appearance by passengers on Staten Island ferries and night sailing ships.

Now all undesirable shadows all over the statue will be washed out by the incandescent bath. Didn't the late President Cleveland, when he unveiled the statue in 1886, say: "We shall not forget that liberty has here made her home, nor shall her chosen altar be neglected?"

The treatment, including all around renovation, will cost more than $30.000, said Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps area, her guardian. A new elevator will be installed for the 350,000 tourists who visit the statue each year.

New Needs Arise Daily

A new home today, a new car tomorrow, a new wardrobe the next day and new furniture the next . . . but these purchases are not scheduled in orderly procession—they await the evident need.

YOU Can't Pick the Day When People Will Want What You Have for Sale

Some families will decide that it is time to buy when they see an advertisement on Wednesday, but an equal number will make a like decision on Thursday. Advertising that meets a need on the day that it becomes evident is the most productive advertising, and, at remarkable small cost, any merchant or individual can place his sales message before "the people who WANT to buy on the day that they decide to act." This means a daily schedule of insertions in the NEW Post—

Virginia Farmers Warned on Labels

Misbranding Law Now in Effect in New York Is Cited for Grower.

Richmond, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—J. H. Meek, director of the Virginia Division of Markets said today that the new grading law of the State of New York, giving the commissioner of agriculture and markets authority to forbid the sale of agricultural products labeled in such a manner to be false or misleading in any particular as to grade should be called to the attention of Virginia farmers.

The law also forbids selling or offering for sale agricultural products in such a manner that the face or shown surface are not the average of the contents. Mr. Meek said that since the law applies to all farm products sold in New York State no matter where the shipment originated, Virginia products are subject to the requirements of the law.

The law, passed by the last New York Legislature, became effective July 1.

James W. Head, of Barcroft, member of the Virginia Bar and chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Arlington County, one of the first aspirants to announce his candidacy for a seat on the county board of five which in accordance with the new form of county government effective January 1, 1932, will replace the present three members of the county board of supervisors, issued the following statement yesterday:

"I favor the fullest possible cooperation with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to the end that the county may avail itself of the opportunity thereby offered to secure the maximum of Federal aid in the beautification of our approaches from the Nation's Capital and other projected large-scale improvements.

"I further favor an immediate study, by the county board, of the perplexing water situation with a view of discovering a means of supplying every applicant with county water expeditiously and on a convenient payment plan. I also favor the earliest possible reduction in water rates.

"I am in hearty sympathy with the aims and efforts of the unselfish fire-fighters of the county, having helped to organize and direct the affairs of one such company, and shall, at all times, lend an attentive ear to expressions of their needs. If elected, I intend to see that public canvassing shall not be necessary for a full fulfillment of any proper or reasonable requirement of the fire departments.

"I favor a sane, reasonable and cooperative attitude toward the public utility companies operating in Arlington County to the end that all our citizens may expeditiously be supplied with gas, electric and telephone service without ill-advised hindrance or unwarranted persecution.

"In conclusion," Mr. Head said, "I shall favor a modern sewerage system for which no charge shall be made against any landowner unless the service is made available to him.

"Having been a resident of Arlington County for the past 25 years and having taken an active part in the civic affairs of the county, having held the office of secretary to the Arlington County Civic Federation and the Arlington District Good Roads Commission, I feel that I am qualified for a seat on the county board and if elected assure the taxpayers of the county that at all times their interests will be well cared for."

Plans are being made by the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, according to the president, Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson, to hold a meeting in the near future at which time an opportunity will be given for candidates for the State Senate and House of Delegates, and possibly another office, to make public their respective platforms.

Inasmuch as the nominees for the offices of the Republican party will not be known until after the convention, which meets on Friday evening of this week, no definite date could be given, Mrs. Simpson stated.

The time and place of this meeting will be announced at a later date.

There will be a meeting of the ladies' auxiliary to the Jefferson District Fire Department tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the firemen's hall. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

The Neighborhood Garden Club, of Ballston, will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. Ida Hendricks, near Waycroft.

The Arlington County Civic Federation will hold its July meeting tomorrow evening at the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock, with President Harry A. Fellows presiding.

Proposed changes in the organization's by-laws, many of which have been made necessary by the change in the county form of government effective January 1, 1932, will be made a special order of business, it is understood. At the present time there are three vice presidents, one from each of the three magisterial districts. The new form of county government abolishes the magisterial districts and in the revision of the by-laws which will be considered it is proposed to eliminate all but one of these offices. As to the executive committee it is proposed to hold it at its full strength, electing five additional members instead of three as at present. The proposed changes in the by-laws is in the hands of the committee, which is headed by Julian D. Simpson as chairman.

President Fellows requests the attendance of all delegates as it is most important that there be a full attendance at a time when a vote is taken on a change in the by-laws of the organization.

The Woman's Club, of the Ballston Presbyterian Church, will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. I. H. Kassebaum.

The League of Republican Women of Arlington County will sponsor a subscription bridge and dance at Windsor Arms Wednesday evening. Dancing will start at 10 o'clock.

The Cherrydale Community Vacation Bible School opens today for a period of two weeks at the Cherrydale Methodist Protestant Church. The hours of classes will be from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon. The program will include Bible study, stories, music, games and handiwork for children in ages from 4 to 12. The Episcopal, Methodist and Baptist churches are cooperating in the work.

Miss Dorothy Compton, of the Cherrydale United Baptist Church, will supervise the classes.

The Margaret Mester Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold a business meeting tomorow morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. G. Baldwin at Clarendon. The meeting will be followed with a luncheon.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the vestry will hold its monthly meeting at the rectory.

Farmer Resents 'Drunk' Test, Dies With Deputy in Fight

Walnut, N. C., July 5 (A.P.).—Jennings Henderson, of Walnut, a farmer, and Joe Baxter Shelton, Madison County deputy sheriff, were killed here last night in a gun battle between the farmer and three deputy sheriffs, Erwin Ramsey, also of Walnut, a bystander, was seriously wounded in the thigh by a stray bullet.

The battle began, the surviving officers said, when three deputies approached in front of Brigman's store and asked Henderson "to start walking" to determine if he was drunk.

The farmer instead, the officers said, whipped out a pistol and started firing.

Shelton returned the fire. Approximately 20 shots were fired, witnesses estimated.

Madison County officers have begun an informal investigation of the shooting.

SEWER ORDINANCE MAY CAUSE HARDSHIP

Alexandria Taxpayers Face New Fee System for Connections.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The new sewer ordinance, which provides a charge of $1.20 per front foot for all houses connected with the city sewer system through private sewers, and $2.20 per front foot for connection with sewers when made by city forces, is likely to prove a serious hardship on between 600 and 700 property owners in the newly annexed portion of Alexandria.

In the former town of Potomac, now a part of Alexandria, most of the residents had already paid into the town treasury a sewer tax, as had most of the residents of Mount Ida, and consequently they will not be affected. However, property owners in Rosemont, Rosemont Park, Mount Vernon Park, Temple Park, sections 1 and 2; Brenton, Cottage Park, Park Addition, Glendale, Braddock and several smaller subdivisions, will be hard hit.

The principal features of the new ordinance include placing jurisdiction and control of all privately owned sewer systems in the city council if, when and while such systems are connected with the sewer system; it requires all individual sewers or privately constructed sewer systems to be connected with the city sewer system whenever a city sewer line is available for connection, and prohibits the emptying of sewage into wells, cesspools or open streams when connection with the city sewer system is possible.

It prescribed that permits must be obtained for all sewer connections, and a fee of $1.20 or $2.20 per front foot, as the case may be, paid. All sewer connections heretofore made, either directly into sewer lines belonging to the city or into privately constructed sewer systems which have been connected with the city sewer system for the transportation of sewage, for which no fee has been paid to the city or, prior to January 1, 1930, the date of annexation, to the town of Potomac, shall be required to obtain a permit and pay the fee applicable. It is pointed out that during the past few years a number of subdivisions have been developed in the suburban sections of the city in which the developers of the properties constructed private sewer systems which emptied into either cesspools or directly into Hooff's Run or some other open stream. The city council has expended many thousands of dollars in the construction of trunk sewers to eliminate the unhealthful conditions created, and most of these private systems have been or are now being connected with these trunk lines. The city not only must maintain these trunk lines, in addition to a large capital outlay, but is faced with the further problem, not far distant, of erecting and operating a disposal plant.

Property owners interested in the provisions of this new ordinance have been invited to attend the informal meeting of the city council at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, so that they may acquaint themselves with its provisions and be heard on any objections they may have to offer.

Many property owners were under the impression that when they purchased their homes, with sewer connections, no further payments for this account would be required, and the news that the council contemplates placing a further tax on them has created considerable discussion. Since many of the persons affected will be unable to meet the financial obligation at once, it is regarded as more than probable that the city will be compelled to accept notes for any unpaid balance. This will be considered by the council, however, after the adoption of the ordinance. For other public improvements, such as streets and sidewalks, the city has, in the past, accepted payment in installments.

William H. Whitcomb, son of the late William H. and Susan V. Neale Whitcomb, of this city, died on Saturday in Atlanta, Ga., after a short illness, and the body will be brought to the home of his sister, Mrs. James Bayne, 217 North Alfred street. The funeral will be held in St. Mary's Catholic Church at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, with a requiem high mass. The deceased was born in this city but had lived in Washington in recent years, moving to Atlanta when the Southern Railway offices were moved there several years ago. Besides Mrs. Bayne, he has another sister living in this city, Mrs. Edwin Birrell.

Bennett Moore, of this city, recently completed a handsome banner for use in Alexandria and elsewhere during the bicentennial celebration, bearing a painting of Washington from the bust of Houdon. The banner is black velvet with gold fringe and the letter gold finish and the painting greenish bronze.

Bids for painting the public school buildings will be received up to 4 o'clock Wednesday evening by Gilbert J. Cox, jr., clerk to the Alexandria School Board, and opened at the board meeting that night. Immediately afterward the board will petition city council for the necessary appropriation for the work.

City Attorney Carl Budwesky has caused a warrant to be issued against John T. Rhines, a Negro undertaker, having his place of business in North Patrick street. The question at issue is the legality of Rhines opening an undertaking establishment in a residential area in violation of the provisions of the zoning ordinance, but the warrant alleges he is doing business without a license.

CHINESE SCHOOL BAN ON BIBLE DISCUSSED

Dr. Lingle Tells Institute of Public Affairs That He Would Not Close.

Charlottesville, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—Prohibition of the use of the Bible in Mission schools is not sufficient cause for closing htem, Dr. Walter L. Lingle, president of Davidson College, Davidson, N. C., said tonight at Vesper service which inaugurated the second week of the Institute of Public Affairs.

Today's program was a quiet interlude between the celebration yesterday of the centennial of the death of James Monroe, in which representatives of a score of nations participated, and opening of a new series of round table discussions tomorrow.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, will direct a discussion of State planning in the morning and tomorrow night will deliver an address on excesive costs of local government.

In his address tonight Dr. Lingle said he recently received a letter from a missionary who said that mission schools in China probably would be closed because they had been ordered either to close or leave the Bible out of their curriculum.

Nobody, he said, realizes more than I do the importance of the Bible, but I do not think I would vote to close a mission school because the government had ordered the Bible out. There are many other ways of teaching religion.

"Often those who teach in State schools, colleges and universities, feel hampered very much as the Chinese missionary. It is not possible to have compulsory classes in the Bible in State-supported schools, but it is always possible for a teacher in such a school to translate religion into daily life."

Dr. Lingle recalled the recent unveiling in Louisville, Ky., of a portrait of the Rev. Charles R. Hemphill, D. D., a native of Chester, S. C., and said that Dr. Hemphill had taught the New Testament to hundreds of young men going into the ministry, but that his students agreed he had helped them most by what he was.

Richmond, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—An optimistic note was sounded tonight by Miss Marion H. McClench, of Ann Arbor, Mich., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, leader of 2,500 delegates to the Old Dominion convention here this week. She said in an interview that the period of business depression had passed its turning point and now is on the upgrade.

"I have traveled 60,000 miles in the last two years and my reaction from people throughout the United States with whom I have come in contact is that the situaton is clearing up," she said.

Miss McClench, who is to preside over the six-day convention, arrived on "The President's Special" from Chicago. The train brought a host of delegates from West and Mid-West States.

BISHOP M'CONNELL RENEWS HAYS ROW

Denies Rev. G. R. Andrews Was Ever in Employ of Church Council.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches, renewed today the controversy between his organization and Will H. Hays, making public a letter denying that the Rev. George Reid Andrews ever had been in the employ of the council.

His statement was contained in a reply to Mr. Hays' letter of last week replying to the council's critical report of the Hays organization, the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Mr. Hays, in his letter, said Federal Council investigators "were fully informed" of a letter which, he said, Mr. Andrews had written "in his then capacity of chairman of the Federal Council committee on religious drama and as executive secretary of the now reputedly disbanded Church and Drama Association." The letter, Mr. Hays said, demanded part of the revenue from the photoplay "King of Kings."

Accusing Mr. Hays of drawing attention away from criticism of his organization's methods, Bishop McConnell said:

"Since you appear to attach considerable importance to a letter from Mr. George Reid Andrews to you in 1926, in which he made certain proposals concerning the disposition of 10 per cent of the income from the film, 'The King of Kings,' it becomes necessary for me to remind you of two crucial facts which you have overlooked.

"In the first place, the letter from Mr. Andrews to you was a personal one for which the Federal Council had no responsibility whatever and about which, so far as I am able to learn, the officers of the council had no knowledge. Mr. Andrews was not then, nor has he ever been, in the employ of the Federal Council. His letter to you was part of a series of personal negotiations, as you well know, extending over a long period.

"Secondly, I have to remind you that in 1926 you put an entirely different construction upon Mr. Andrew's letter from that which you are putting upon it in 1931. Our investigators went into the whole matter carefully and among the things htey discovered was that, although you regarded the letter as indiscreetly worded, you did not then find in it any mercenary intent or improper purpose. Furthermore, you proceeded to cooperate with Mr. Andrews in the poduction of 'The King of Kings' in a way that was entirely inconsistent with the interpretation that you now put upon his leter."

Skull Reveals Life 100,000 Years Ago

Discovery Near Jerusalem Reported to Yale by Archeologist.

New Haven, Conn., July 5 (U.P.).—Discovery of the skull of a Neanderthal child near Jerusalem is believed by archeologists here to have given undeniable evidence that human life existed in what is now Palestine 60,000 to 100,000 years ago.

Report of the discovery in a cave at Athlit was made to Prof. George Grant MacCurdy, of Yale, director of the American School of Prehistoric Research, by Miss Dorothy Garrod, woman explorer in charge of the school's joint expedition with the British School of Archeology.

Previous remains had indicated man inhabited the section as far back as 30,000 years ago.

PANAMA ESCAPING WORLD TRADE PINCH

Self-Contained Economically; $1,500,000 Got Yearly From Liquor.

Panama City, July 5 (A.P.).—The Republic of Panama, probably as self-contained economically as any country in the world, has felt but lightly the world depression.

Unlike other Central and South American countries which export their products and suffer keenly from any decrease in outside buying power, Panama has little to sell. Business has slumped in the more populous centers at the ends of the canal, but in the interior towns life in general has been little affected.

The most important single item of government revenue is the liquor tax, which produces more than $1,500,000 a year. This source has maintained a fairly even level. It is expected to show an increase shortly from a new beer tax.

The government which came into power in January under the leadership of President Ricardo J. Alfaro has recognized the importance of tourist trade, and is planning to make the isthmus more attractive to the thousands of travelers who each year pass through the canal.

King Favors Old Art.

London, July 5 (U.P.).—King George likes the old school of painting and art. He has no time for the modern styles and all the different "neo" cults. He said as much when he visited an exhibition of paintings by Prince Nicholas of Greece recently. The king, who was accompained by Queen Mary and his sister, Princess Victoria, spent nearly an hour walking around the exhibition.

Mabelle Corey Runs to Get Thin

Has One-Woman Track on Her Estate Not From Versailles.

Paris, July 5 (U.P.).—Mrs. Mabelle Corey, once belle of Broadway and married to Pittsburgh millions, is the head of a new school of thought for reducing which is a compromise between nudism and steam baths.

At her castle near Versailles, the Chateau de Villegenis, Mrs. Corey comprises a one-woman track team and does her daily dozen laps on the cinder path.

Speed means nothing, it is duration which counts in the new Corey reducing system. The limos which once ruled Broadway and may or may not have had some influence upon the marriage of the Pittsburgh millionaire and the New York show girl are as beautifully formed as ever and poundage that refused to budge under massaging and ordinary dieting has gone.

Many have followed her example and at the American County Club near Paris there is a secluded straightaway for women reducing-runners. There is also a stadium, the Stade Elizabeth, at the edge of Paris now reserved exclusively for women.

Prehistoric Tooth Found.

Newfane, Vt, July 5 (U.P.).—What appears to be an enormous tooth, perhaps that of some prehistoric animal, was found by Ralph Kirkwood in the West River near his home. The tooth weighs a pound, is 6¼ inches long, 3½ inches wide and 1½ inches thick.

Jesse James' Gun Stolen.

Cambridge, Mass., July 5 (U.P.).—A six shooter with four notches on it, said to have once been the property of Jesse James, was introduced as evidence in court here. The gun, it was alleged, was one of several articles stolen from the Pepperell home of Mrs. Lucy C. Cushing.

THE VIBRATIONLESS CAR FOR MILLIONS IN THE LOWEST-PRICE FIELD

TO produce in 1931 an achievement in motor car design, engineering and pricing so revolutionary that it transcends every previous standard of quality, performance and value in the field of lowest price is to challenge the world.

That is precisely what the New Plymouth does.

It challenges the previous finest in design among lowest-priced cars.

It challenges the former best in smoothness and performance.

It challenges the world's greatest in motor car manufacture.

It challenges every known standard of automobile value.

Plymouth challenges with the greatest contribution Chrysler Motors engineers have made to modern motoring—"Floating Power."

For years while designing fine Sixes and Eights for Chrysler, Dodge and De Soto, Chrysler Motors engineers have worked unceasingly for the perfected Four.

Now they give you the results of their labors and discoveries—

The New Plymouth, a quality car of lowest price with the smoothness of an Eight and the Economy of a Four—due to Plymouth's exclusive Floating Power.

Here is power unshackled, yet power as smooth as satin, as soft as velvet. Here is power without vibration — literally floating; power so silken that even experts could not name the number of cylinders under the Plymouth hood, and many guessed the New Plymouth to be an Eight.

Plymouth challenges with Free Wheeling in all forward speeds.

In the lowest-priced field Plymouth gives you this epochal development in smooth, easy driving and economy. With Plymouth Free Wheeling you can shift gears between all forward speeds without declutching. Here's a feature that adds zest and ease to driving in heavy traffic.

Plymouth challenges with a new, easy-shift transmission.

Besides Free Wheeling, Plymouth offers a new Easy-Shift transmission which makes it possible to shift not only from second to high at speeds of 35 or 45 miles an hour but back into second at these speeds, when you need sudden acceleration, without clashing or grinding. Here's a feature that adds safety to driving where grades are stiff and steep.

Plymouth challenges with 56 brake-test horsepower.

Here is more power than you ever need —with actual stop-watch speed of 65 to 70 miles per hour; pick-up from a standing start to 40 miles in 9.7 seconds.

Plymouth challenges with self-equalizing internal hydraulic brakes.

Among all cars in the lowest-price field, only Plymouth has weatherproof hydraulic brakes — simplest and unexcelled for safety and smoothness.

Plymouth challenges with double-drop frame.

Chrysler Motors engineers have given this high-priced car feature to the Plymouth. Plymouth has a still lower center of gravity, still greater safety, still greater riding ease, still finer style.

Plymouth challenges with entirely new styling, with new eye-compelling beauty of line and color.

We believe the New Plymouth establishes in the field of lowest price a new degree of artistic advancement.

By the principles of Dynamic Symmetry, Chrysler Motors designers have created outstanding and inescapable beauty.

Plymouth challenges with full-size Safety-Steel body, with wire wheels standard, with hydraulic shock absorbers.

No feature of luxurious comfort, of long-lived reliability, of economy, has been left out of the New Plymouth.

I am happy to extend to the entire motoring world a cordial welcome to see, to drive and to ride in the New Plymouth, and to invite comparison between this exceptional product of Chrysler Motors engineering and any car in the world at or near the price of the New Plymouth.

This vibrationless Four that wipes out all earlier conceptions of fine motoring in the lowest-priced field challenges your attention; take a demonstration and let the New Plymouth prove its superiority.

270 HOLIDAY DEATHS HIGHEST FOR YEARS

109 Drowned, 17 at Los Angeles; Fireworks Toll Is Six.

(Associated Press.)

The Nation counted the cost of its 155th Independence Day celebration at 270 lives. With all sections of the country sharing in the inevitable price of the annual observance, the highest loss of recent years was reached.

The Mid-Atlantic States led in with 62 lives lost, but the Mid-Western States were but a step behind with 55, 5 more than the Pacific Coast suffered.

Fireworks, once the major cause for fatalities on the holiday, this year accounted for only six lives; two in the Mid-Atlantic, one each in the Mid-West, the Southwest, South and New England. But the injured from explosives totaled at least 368.

The lakes and rivers exacted the grimmest reckoning. Though much of the country was free on the Fourth from the severe heat wave which last week counted its victims at nearly 1,300 dead, it was warm enough that rivers and lakes were thronged. One hundred and nine lives were lost in drownings. The Pacific Coast reported 27 of this number, 17 occurring at Los Angeles alone, where a surging tide swept over crowded beaches. Four men drowned in Lake Michigan near Gary, Ind., in attempt to rescue a youth caught in a vicious undertow. The youth was saved by lifeguards.

The jammed highways of the Nation took 96 lives in automobile accidents, as compared with 81 last year. Airplane fatalities, however, increased to eight—three in the Mid-Atlantic, the same number in the Mid-West, and two in the Mountain States.

The Mountain States offered the best sectional record, for their death list from all causes was eight.

Oklahoma's holiday dead included three in a freight train wreck at Durant and one in a shooting at Seminole. In Colorado an auto racer was killed.

The Mid-West's lone fireworks fatality occurred at Kenney, Ill., where an 8-year-old girl died from burns received when her dress caught fire from a sparkler.

Canton Floods Drown 100; Water in Streets

Canton, China, July 5 (A.P.).—More than 100 persons have drowned in extensive floods of the North and East rivers in the past few days.

The low lying streets of Canton were covered with water and boats have taken the place of rickshaws and other vehicles.

Sugar Stabilization Plan Author Here

Thomas M. Chadbourne on Way to Charlottesville Institute.

Thomas M. Chadbourne, of New York, author of the international sugar stabilization plan, recently agreed upon by the seven largest sugar-producing nations of the world to cut down the production of the product, will stop in Washington today on his way to Charlottesville, Va., where he is to address the Public Relations Institute of the University of Virginia.

Mr. Chadbourne will speak there tomorrow night on the ramifications of the stabilization plan and the economic prospects of Cuba.

Recently 25 leading sugar producers appeared before the Tariff Commission and requested a further boost in the rates on Cuban raw sugar. The last session of Congress raised the tariff from 1.25 cents to 2 cents a pound.

U.S. Trip Planned By Latin America

Business Leaders Will Make Survey Tour in October.

A group of business leaders from the twenty republics of Latin America will make a tour of inspection of leading industrial and commercial centers of the United States in October. The party will be composed of delegates to the fourth Pan-American Commercial Conference, which will meet in Washington from October 5 to 12.

A committee of outstanding business executives of the United States has been organized, and in cooperation with commercial organizations of the cities to be visited, will make the necessary arrangements for entertainment of the guests. John L. Merrill, president of the All-America Cables and of the Pan-American Society of the United States, is chairman of the committee.

The visit of inspection will follow the Pan-American Conference and will complement the discussions at Washington.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

WITH the funeral services in Temple Emanu-El, 1 E. Sixty-sixth street New York, this afternoon at 1 o'clock, of Harry L. Reichenbach, who died last Friday in Doctors' Hospital of an internal disease that had made him an invalid for many months, there passes from the scene one of the most spectacular publicity experts the motion picture industry has known.

Frequently accused of not confining his efforts to constructive work of pegmanent value, there never could be any charge that Reichenbach ever failed to catch public attention or center it in the subject of his own interest at the moment. His was an uncanny insight into the baffling mysteries of mob psychology.

I first met "the silver king"—and his hair then was almost pure white—back about 1917 when he came to Washington in the interests of the Herbert Brenon's production of "The Fall of the Romanoffs," which Tom Moore presented as one of the sensational releases of war times in the Strand Theater, which he then controlled and operated as the forerunner of the Rialto, then in course of construction. Diminutive in stature, Reichenbach was a giant in daring. Nothing was too stiff an order for him to tackle. If he foresaw glaring newspaper headlines as a result. This utter fearlessness and eagerness to shatter precedent more than once brought him into spirited controversy with the authorities. New York State once theatening to pass a law prohibiting the dissemination of false or misleading information to newspapers—as a result of one of his fantastic stunts—to which Harry retorted that he would thereupon agitate the desirability of a similar law relating to unfulfilled political promises. And that was that!

It was not exclusively in the exploitation of motion picture productions, however, that Harry Reichenbach demonstrated those abilities that made it possible for him to command a salary ranging from $1,000 to $6,000 per week through the years. During the war he was a major in the U. S. Intelligence Service and served with distinction as a representative abroad of the American Committee on Public Information, of which George Creel was the head. He never employed his title of major after the war because it had not been won on the firing line.

He originated and executed brilliant publicity campaigns for various interests in the Argentine, Uruguay, South Africa and France, as well as in Italy, Germany and England, and once declined a large retainer from the Serbian government.

Reichenbach it was who "discovered" Douglas Fairbanks, Marguerite Clarke and Clara Kimball Young. He "made" Barbara La Marr and Francis X. Bushman. He gave Rudolph Valentino his first job and worked as publicity man for him, as he did later for Gloria Swanson, Wallace Reid, Thomas Meighan, Ethel Barrymore, Charlie Chaplin and Pola Negri.

The last time he was in Washington professionally, to the best of my recollection, was with Ruth Elder when she made her personal appearances at Loew's Palace, following her flight over the Atlantic and rescue at sea.

There is no one in the present crop of publicists who can step into Harry Reichenbach's shoes, whether as "a press agent with the soul of an artist," or as wit, bon vivant, toastmaster or after-dinner speaker.

One of the most charming ballets of the season is being executed by the Chester Hale Girls in the "Get Set" revue, currently at the Palace, to the lilting strains of "When the Night Is Young." It is artistically and tastefully costumed, and performed with the utmost grace, but dancers don't seem to point their toes any more, do they?

And some of our singers aren't any too careful about the little niceties of their calling, either, as far as that goes. Last evening, Bernice Claire, the screen prima donna who not so long ago made a week of personal appearances at the Earle, singing over the air in the hour formerly enlivened by the jocularity of Maurice Chevralier, en route to the Riviera for a vacation, made quite a point of pronouncing garden "gar-dun," and you may have noticed in that daily "Swanee music," that our own "Dixie song bird" persists in theming about "when the moon rises over the 'mountun'." It is little things like those that make too-long paragraphs like this!

It as being rumored about in usually well informed circles that George Arliss may soon be seen on the screen in an impersonation of John D. Rockefeller, sr., in a film based on the picturesque and colorful life of the oil magnate. Negotiations are said to be on between the Warner Brothers and the Rockefeller family with such a production in view.

I take it that "The Millionaire" was merely by way of being a bit of a workout.

Another report has it that as soon as Frau Helene Lubitsch secures her final decree of divorce from Ernst Lubitsch, the famous director, she will marry his former pal, Hans Kraly, the famous scenario writer—which is what it is generally understood to have all been about in the first place, what with the flaticuffing indulged in by the boys and one thing and another.

With Zita Johann, seen here at the Belasco last season in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," as his star, David Wark Griffith today will begin his production of "The Struggle," at the Audio Cinema Studio, in the Bronx, New York.

In the supporting cast will be Hal Skelly, late stor of "Burlesque," absent from the silver sheet for many months; Charlotte Wynters, leading woman with Glenn Hunter in "A Regular Guy," and Edna Hagan, a sensational seven-year-old actress in whom Griffith believes he has made another great discovery. "The Struggle" is a drama of 1931 and will be the "Old Master's" next release through United Artists.

So firecrackers were against the law, eh? Well, the dogs out our way haven't dared even so much as to stick their noses out of doors even yet!

Usual Morning-After Sight Tells Reno of Hectic Night

Paper-Littered Streets Carry Remnants of Departing Throngs Out of City After Holiday and Fight Celebration.

Reno, Nev., Judy 5 (A.P.).—Rough and ready Reno—caught in a tidal wave of merrymakers—awakened today after the wildest night in its history.

On the streets where thousands roamed last night the crowds had dwindled and only the red and green paper, remnants of thousands of firecrackers, remained to tell the tale of the hectic night before.

Gambling houses, however, were doing an unusually heavy Sabbath business and the Pullman car city in the Southern Pacific yards was still in evidence.

Highways leading to mountain retreats and to Lake Tahoe in particular, were lined all day with thousands of machines as residents and visitors alike sought relief from the heat.

An exodus of at least half the city's 15,000 visitors was accomplished during the day and by tomorrow morning the remaining tourists, mostly from California, will have departed.

Many of the visitors swelled the crowd of 18,000 persons which watched Paulino Uzcudun, Basque heavyweight, pound out a 20-round boxing decision over Max Baer, rangy Californian.

Uzcudun was awarded the decision by Jack Dempsey, promoter-referee, by virtue of a final drive in the last round. Until then the fight was even.

chase after pursuing the man for 80 minutes. At 4:30 o'clock Patrolman Gaither picked up the car on the Bradley Hills boulevard. Ordered to halt, Benson ignored the command, Gaither said, until the policeman drew his gun.

Benson was taken before Justice of the Peace A. L. Moore at Bethesda, where the following charges were placed against him: Driving while drunk, exceeding 60 miles an hour, lack of registration card, failing to keep to the right of the center of the road and passing an automobile at the top of a hill.

BUSINESS LEADERS LOOK TO AUTUMN

Trade Hopes for Revival in Next Season; Summer Still Cuts Sales.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—As business slumps downward to its summer nadir, eyes are turned to the autumn, when the next seasonal zenith will be attained.

The volume of industrial activity has now shrunk to around the levels of last December, but the world of business has been greatly reassured by the aggressive measures to lift the burden of intergovernmental debts.

Business and trade reports of the last week indicated some slackening in the rate of decline, but on the whole were not particularly illuminating, which is a characteristic of this season. Furthermore, there has been some sobering of spirits, as a natural reaction from the wave of optimism which swept the country in the preceding week, in response to President Hoover's war debt proposal. Nevertheless, there is an impressive residuum of better feeling. Commentators point out that the third quarter of the year, just started, normally becomes a period of gradually expanding operations, after July 1, and that it will not be difficult for the final quarter to make a favorable comparison with the end of 1930, when the depression was rapidly coming to its acute phase. Since that time, the natural processes of deflation and correction have progressed rapidly.

Reactions in Commodities.

There have been some reactions in commodity prices, after the brisk advances of the previous week, but most surveys indicate that there has in the aggregate been further improvement. The Annalist's weekly commodity price index showed a further gain of 2-5 of a point, as against an advance of little more than a point in the previous week. This index has not recorded a decline since the week ended June 2.

The advance in copper during the previous week appeared to have been too rapid, in view of the large stocks of metal still hanging over the market. After the advance from 8 to 9 cents, buying dwindled, and some custom smelters have since offered metal as low at 8¼ cents, although large producers still stick to their 9-cent price.

On the whole, however, confidence in the stability of commodity prices, greatly needed for business recovery, seems to be growing. Many items have continued to work higher, with hides and leather showing marked improvement. Substantial improvement in the petroleum markets probably awaits settlement of the East Texas proration problem, now delayed by litigation, but wholesale gasoline in the Chicago market has been firming.

Building Contracts Shrink.

Building contracts awarded in the States East of the Rockies, as reported by F. W. Dodge Corp., showed a substantial shrinkage in the third week of June from the improved showing of the first two weeks. The daily average for the third week was $11,136,116, compared to a daily average of $12,671,754 in the first two weeks. More recently, however, there has been a little more activity in the lumber trade, particularly in the far West, so that forthcoming building reports may show some improvement.

Steel production is estimated by Iron Age for the latest week at about 35 per cent of capacity, off more than a point from the previous week.

Shutdowns over the Independence Day week-end have undoubtedly brought the average output down again sharply, but orders for line pipe are expected to bring a substantial comeback in the Youngstown area during the coming week.

A little more business from the railroads during the past week has been a sustaining factor. The schedule of hearings on the carriers' petition for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates has deferred hope of higher rates for some three months, or possibly longer, but the railroads are optimistic over the eventual result, and the steel trade is hoping that further equipment buying may be encouraged.

The automobile makers continue to curtail operations, and the output is estimated at less than 300,000 units for the United States and Canada, against roughly 315,000 for May. Work on new models by two makers is helping to sustain activity.

Retail trade was helped during the past week by the warm weather and preparations for the Saturday holiday.

Curb Review

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Moderate profit-taking made curb prices reactionary during a large part of last week, but confidence in the eventual outcome of the Paris debt negotiations kept the decline small and made possible considerable recovery from the lows. Some stocks topped the previous week's highs in the Friday rally.

Trading fell off to volumes comparable to those of the dull days immediately preceding President Hoover's announcement, which meant that trades were reluctant to take much of a position on either side until the result of the Washington-Paris interchange became known. The market spent much of its time in a narrow range.

Group movements were indefinite. Utilities were subject to realizing early in the week but resisted pressure stubbornly and then retraced their downward path. Shares of companies with foreign connections, notably Brazilian Traction, were prominent. Oils were irregular. Industrials and specialties, many of which have thin markets, failed to develop much activity in many instances, although there were flurries of strength in a few issues. Woolworth, Ltd., a newcomer, was especially favored and worked higher in large turnovers. Metals held well despite the shading in copper prices.

Domestic considerations had little effect on the week's dealings, for although the first flush of enthusiasm over the debt moratorism proposal had paled, the market remained almost entirely dependent on the foreign news.

To change the policy toward specialists of the old order to attract more of them to industry.

To increase the interior sources of industry and develop the piecework system.

Utility Holding Firm's Net Indicates Increase

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—The consolidated income statement of United Corporation, large utility holding company, for the first six months of 1931 shows a balance of $9,278,517 available for dividends. Deducting preferred dividends, there remained $5,545,031 applicable to the common stock. After the disbursements on that issue there remained a balance of $502,415, bringing the total earned surplus to $7,554,992.

Comparative figures for 1930 were not available, but net income for all of 1930 was $16,079,527 and the surplus $3,496,901.

WEEK'S BONDS HOLD LATE GAINS IN PRICE

Market Reactions on Friday Reveal Reality in Rise of All Issues.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—The bond market performed a series of backward and forward movements last week which resulted in few appreciable changes until the fifth and final session on Friday.

Reports of virtual settlement of the intergovernmental debts question served then to turn the price trend upward. The average closing price for 30 representative bonds consisting of ten issues each of rails, public utilities and industrials on Thursday was 95.4 which was precisely the same figure as for the preceding Saturday. The closing average on Friday was 96.

The impressive thing about the advance on Friday was its unmistakable reality. All groups participated in the upswing and many individual gains were substantial. Trading also showed a sharp increase.

Condition of Bonds.

Aside from the advance on Friday the financial community has been aware for some time that unusual conditions existed in the bond market. Difference in the yield between high grade and second grade bonds normally is about ½ of 1 per cent. Wider differences have appeared in times of stress such as the present, when the average yield of high grade issues is about 4½ per cent compared with 6 per cent for the less desirable bonds.

Parsly Brothers & Co. have prepared a compilation and graphic chart on this aspect of the situation. The Friday advance was not sufficient of course to change this relationship materially. The fundamental reason for the discrepancy is that in times of uncertainty, capital is more inclined to flow into safe investments than into those of speculative standing.

Whether the advance on Friday was the beginning of a broad upward movement is a question the answer to which many people would like to know and which the future alone can tell.

Easy Money Is Aid.

However, one influence which is worth considering is the easy money policy of the Federal Reserve System. The low rates of rediscount and low buying rates for commercial bills are now reinforced by the purchase of Government bonds, the holdings of which have shown increases in two successive weekly statements.

Flotations of new issues during the last five-day week amounted to $26,897,000 compared with $181,141,000 for the preceding week. Probably the holiday and the vacation season combined to cause part of the slump in the total.

UNSOLVED HAITI.

American occupation of Haiti during the last sixteen years has resulted, as has longer dominance in Porto Rico and the Philippines, in material improvement, greatly enlarged school facilities and in actual self-government in much greater measure than was formerly known. But these imposed benefits are quite unappreciated by native politicians, who are always demanding absolute and immediate evacuation, while the great majority in an inert population take no part in governmental affairs in any case.

When, under the title of republic, the governing elite of Haiti, largely mulattoes, were in entire control, 90 per cent of the people, constituting the lower classes, had no voice in governmental affairs. They suffered alike from official oppression and universal banditry. Under marine-made peace and order roads have been built, schools established and safety assured. But there is still an American governor in the palace. The question of how quickly and completely Americans can withdraw from the island has concerned Washington for several years. Commissions, congressmen and private investigators, as well as native patriots, differ widely in opinion. Nevertheless, official announcement has been made of intention to withdraw American forces gradually.

The method of giving up authority once assumed is a serious problem. The question as to whether native talent can maintain the level of advancement established is uncertain and there is invariably added the debatable point as to whether a people should not be allowed to have any kind of government they themselves elect, whether good or bad, according to our standards. This right is always contended for by the few who, in such event, would grasp authority and privilege. The doubt always arises as to whether the majority would not suffer.

Senator William H. King has been a friend and frequent visitor to Haiti. On his last trip there in the spring, he was hailed as a national hero and entertainment befitting a visiting monarch was staged for him. He was expected to sympathize with the campaign for treaty abrogation and withdrawal of all Americans. When he counseled cooperation with the American Minister and respect for treaty obligations, enthusiasm cooled and the senator departed without any of the attendant pomp that had welcomed him. His congratulations upon the measure of popular government that had been attained, free speech and a popularly elected congress, fell upon unappreciative ears. As Calvin Coolidge recently said, Americans do many things in this hemisphere for which they receive no gratitude.

Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, in a recent series of addresses, has joined the chorus of criticism. "American military occupation has not been successful," he says, "in Haiti or in any other country of the Americas." He admits that there has been marked improvement in native life in Haiti, "especially in public health, education and living conditions of the peasants." The essential thing Dr. Rowe finds lacking is that "the art of self-government can not be taught by one nation to another in such a manner." What better foundations for self-government can be afforded than the "improvements" the doctor enumerates?

Thankless and expensive tasks indeed are those the United States has inherited in connection with its island dependencies. The demands of self-styled native patriots too often cover their own greedy desires for power and profit with little regard for the welfare of ignorant masses. Impatient impulse to be rid of worries and responsibilities must frequently animate American officials as it does private citizens, when they realize how little the wealth of time, money and experience poured out so freely is either understood or esteemed. The work is carried on with disregard for caviling and selfish objectors because it is for the undoubted advantage of the inarticulate majorities.

ARGENTINA'S CONSTITUTION.

Provisional President Uriburu, emulating a similar movement in Spain, has prepared elaborate recommendations for reforms in the constitution of Argentina to be presented to the Congress which will be elected next November. The proposed changes are not merely technicalities, but seek to effect strict limitations upon the exercise of executive power and thus remove the great curse of "personalismo."

President Uriburu urges the adoption of these proposed changes because of the usurpation of dictatorial authority by his predecessor, Hipolito Irigoyen, quite ignoring the charges that he himself has been as ruthless in the exercise of executive authority as the man he overthrew. But the constitutional changes he now advocates appear to hold promise of valuable restrictive provisions. The three capital faults in the political life of the Argentine are listed as personalism, centralization of power and an oligarchy which degenerates ultimately into demagogy.

Of the evils of personalism President Uriburu says that "in the eyes of our politicians, irrespective of their denomination or tendency, institutions are lost in the personality of the individual. The executive power is the person of the president; he is the friend or the enemy, and the party is the leader of the group that surrounds him." The Argentine constitution, he finds, encourages this by giving the president such powers that he becomes a dictator and congress a dependent institution.

The suggested reforms would fix a definite date for the assembling of Congress each year instead of awaiting executive call, make rules for the seating of elected members and avoid congressional blockade through deliberate absence of one party group, by having one-third of the membership of each house constitute a quorum. To further decentralize the power of the president it is proposed to give greater financial control to Congress, to extend both the political and financial autonomy of the provinces and to remove the courts from politics by having appointments for the minor courts made by the supreme court.

President Uriburu may have forestalled some of the criticism that has been growing against his own regime by his proposals. It is certain that he has touched a vital weakness, not only in his own country, but in most Latin-American republics, when he attacks the pernicious effects of personal politics. If he can effect the substitution of parties and issues for the rancors of individual allegiance, he will set an example worthy of general emulation.

ON WINGS OF THE WIND.

Nearly 500,000 American letters are carried to their destination by air mail every day. One million pounds of air mail a month will soon be the Postoffice record. Such is the estimate of Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover in a report following an inspection trip that carried him to the Far Northwestern section of the United States. After more than 3,000 miles in the air he is enthusiastic concerning both the mail and passenger service afforded by American lines.

Particularly in the Pacific Coast areas the growing use of air transportation is noticeable. Appreciation of the time-saving advantages of the airplane in covering the wide spaces of the West is indicated by constantly growing mail patronage and passenger business is demanding constantly increasing speed and comfort. Air service that formerly provided flying schedules of 90 to 100 miles per hour are preparing to meet requirements for speed of 135 to 170 miles.

While the delivery of transcontinental mail in this country has been reduced to one-fourth the time previously required, it is in the even greater international distances that maximum time saving has been possible. Letter mail is now received from South American ports within two days. Air mail and passenger service have long been efficiently established between Bogota, the capital of Colombia, and the South American coast. Formerly, during times of low water in the Magdalena River, travel from Baranquilla or Cartagena might require three weeks by boat and rail for the distance that now is a day's flight. It is in these distant parts, where the pilot hops over mountain ranges and barren wastes with equal speed to save many weary days of travel by other means, that impatient travelers and those who use the mail can most appreciate aviation.

NEW YORK'S FOOD BILL.

No visitor to New York City can fail to be impressed with the importance of the business of eating in that metropolis. The thousands of restaurants of every imaginable class—there are nearly 9,000 of them—seem to be quite capable of supplying all the meals that Gothamites require. But when it is realized that the meals consumed in the great city every day and night probably number 25,000,000 it is easier to appreciate that with all its restaurant capacity three-fourths of the food consumed must be prepared in private homes.

There are in New York, aside from the restaurants and other places where food is prepared, 42,987 food stores. Their sales amount to considerably more than $1,000,000,000 a year, leading the sales of any other store group by several hundred million dollars. Manhattan spends a total of $4,000,000 a day for nourishment, though probably quite a slice of this sum goes for alleged entertainment along the Great White Way in connection with small amounts of food.

Half of the stores of New York are devoted to satisfying hunger. They absorb more than one-fourth of all the city spends in retail establishments. The next in value of sales is the apparel group with 13,639 stores and the general merchandise group, which includes the department stores, with 4,121 units. Together they do an annual business of $1,300,000,000. Then come the automotive dealers who gather in nearly $500,000,000 a year. The furniture and household goods stores account for $300,000,000 and the lumber and building group nearly $200,000,000. Some market is little old New York, its total retail purchases every year amounting to nearly $4,500,000,000.

To those who fear that the chain stores are devouring the independents it will be reassuring to know that of the total retail establishments in the five burroughs of Manhattan, totaling 103,623, there are 87,234 single-establishment independents. The local, sectional and national chain units combined transact only 25 per cent of New York's retail business. It is interesting to note, however, that among the grocery stores, combination stores and meat markets, the chains represent 30 per cent of the total number and secure 50 per cent of the business.

COMPENSATING INJURY.

The Commonwealth of Kentucky has a law and a record under it that are worthy of emulation. The workmen's compensation law has had fifteen years of trial and it has stood the test of rendering efficient aid to many unfortunate victims of carelessness or accident. It provides partial, prompt and definite relief against disability or death resulting from industrial accidents, without regard to questions of negligence, and includes surgical, hospital and rehabilitation service. Payment of benefits is based upon the amount of each beneficiary's earnings.

It is not a compulsory act, but elective, the benefits conferred being applicable only to employers and employes who agree to assume the responsibilities provided for. Statistics show that responsibility for accidents is about equally divided between employe and employer and that half of all accidents are due to other than human causes. Under the common law the number of injured employes or dependents who recovered damages was less than 25 per cent.

Under the Kentucky system the compensation benefit is certain and speedily secured without difficulty or expense. When an injured employe and his employer can not agree, application may be made to the workmen's compensation board for adjustment. The chairman of this board, Clyde R. Levi, made a report upon the operation of the law last year which gives eloquent proof in figures of its value. Accidents reported number 20,758 and of these 15,049 were settled amicably between the injured employes and their employers. The total benefits amounted to $1,315,000 and in addition to this sum the board made additional awards of $343,812. About half of the total amount awarded was for accidents in coal mines for coal mining is the most hazardous industry in the State.

THE CASE FOR COURAGE

From the London Times.

The more President Hoover's proposal is considered, the more profound becomes the conviction of its courage and of its importance as a contribution to the restoration of economic stability in a disorganized world. It is no small thing that the head of the Republican party in the United States should in fact admit the essential interdependence of the country's financial and economic system with those of other lands—an interdependence which every proclamation of his party's faith and every manifestation of its activity have hitherto denied. It is no small thing that this admission should be made, and a proposal of self-denial in the larger interest be advanced, at a time when the national Treasury faces an unparalleled deficit and the American taxpayer must square his shoulders for a heavier burden. But more, and most of all, it is matter for high praise that the man who, for more than a year, has stood against the assaults of enmity and undeserved ill-fortune should now find heart to confront the chances of a deeper unpopularity. * * * There can, indeed, be no question of Mr. Hoover's courage, as there can be none of the urgent need for its display.

The President has truly said that the fabric of intergovernmental debts, supportable in normal times, weighs heavily in the midst of depression." It would serve no good purpose at this time to discuss whether, or to what degree, these intergovernmental debts had been contributory to the depression they now have made unbearable. It is in any case admitted that they have played a dangerous part in canalizing the flow of gold from other great commercial nations to the United States, in whose vaults the metal lies immobilized and sterile. The movement, said Mr. Hoover, "is lowering the credit stability of many foreign countries." More bluntly put, there is at stake the very basis and maintenance of the international system known as the gold standard, in a world whose members are today so linked one with another, so unitedly caught in the vast web of cosmopolitan dealing, that the effect of a collapse of credit at any one of a number of important points can no longer be localized. Mr. Hoover returned to Washington from his Western trip to be told that at more than one of these points such a collapse was imminent, that at one of these points it had, in fact, been narrowly averted only by extraordinary action taken from outside at the eleventh hour. The situation was, and for some time to come must still be, grave beyond the present bounds of discreet expression. It demanded, and still demands, consideration by "the important creditor-powers" in that spirit of enlightened self-interest which takes account of the interest of all. Their governments will remember moreover that even more is at stake than the fabric of international credit. This is a time not only of acute economic depression, but of widespread social unrest, of an unrest which grows by the depression it feeds upon; and where discouragement and distress are deepest the forces of disruption look for their recruits. There are a thousand signs that political stability can not precede, though it may follow, financial stability, and that the road to peace and the reasonable assurance of an ordered international life lies by way of economic recovery.

POST HASTE.

This may be the "be-kind-to-German-reparations-in-kind" week.

Speaking of the way Germany is coming back in sports, France says, don't forget that infant prodigy battleship.

The papal envoy to the Italian state may be recalled. In other words, the Pope may step to the window and beckon to the nuncio to come back on his own side of the street.

The noises heard around the world last week were not Fourth of July bombs, but President Hoover putting his foot down.

Fourteen Philadelphians were injured in a five-car crash on White Horse Pike. Red-headed girl or white horse liquor?

One difficulty with settling the Italian row is that both Mussolini and the Pope insist on saying: "When in Rome, do as I do."

Prohibition wasn't an appropriate Fourth of July topic so Gov. Ritchie spread his wet blanket on the moratorium.

The principal Fourth of July sport continues to be attack and defense of Fortress Monroe Doctrine. Is it more sinned against than observed in the breach?

The required number of sound teeth for entering the Naval Academy has been reduced from two dozen to one score. Biting the enemy and bully beef have both gone out of fashion.

The chewing gum business increased last year, utilizing imported products. How about combining goldenrod rubber, wheat and sugar for lasting pleasure and local prosperity?

The dangerous "rip" tide sounds like something bent upon a well-nigh impossible effort to increase pulchritudinous exposure at the seashore.

What a birthday it would have been for Uncle Sam if he could have awakened to find that some one had relieved him of one Monroe Doctrine and a few outlying islands.

Senator Swanson has started on a world tour to investigate the depreciation of silver and also the dilapidated condition of some American Embassy and Legation buildings. He will find the buildings can readily be restored.

The rumor is not confirmed that Secretary Stimson will order an American insurance company to take its advertisement off the Rock of Gibraltar.

The Pope's encyclical hints at "the one who not only represents all, but who can do all and who confirms it in official or quasi-official publications dedicated to the young." The Duce, you say?

"What is Post Haste, air mail, or special delivery?" Not even special handling, just penny greens. If you find an occasional red sticker, that's your prize. P. H.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AS EVER.

Still the world is bright with beauty,
Still the air is fresh and clean,
Still content to do their duty,
Leaf and bud and flower are seen,
Where the summer breeze is blowing,
Still the ripening grain is growing.

Bees are droning, birds are singing,
Grass is green beneath our feet,
To the boughs are apples clinging,
Storing up the summer sweet.
In a world so filled with gladness
Why should money breed such sadness?

What if panics have assailed us,
Born of things which mortals do,
God above has never failed us,
Still the summer skies are blue.
His great purpose never alters,
It is only man who falters.

If You Hope to Travel Far, You Must Choose a Steamship Instead of a Rowboat.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF you are an ordinary, normal human, you take stock of yourself at intervals and wish you could make yourself more worthy and more successful.

It isn't a difficult task, if you go about it in the right way.

There is no magic formula. It still is impossible to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. And no scheme yet devised can make the stupid intelligent.

But there is a way by which you can harness your own undeveloped powers and make them serve you better than they have served in the past.

It isn't a new idea. In fact it is the same method you have used to make yourself what you are today.

The only difference is that you use the method intentionally, with definite purpose, whereas heretofore you used it unconsciously.

What made you the person you now are?

If you will take careful stock of yourself—your habits, your possessions, your job, your friendships and everything pertaining to you—you will discover that everything is a result of desire.

Desire prompted and led you to your present position. And desire will continue to guide and build you always, for good or ill.

That being true, why not develop a desire big enough to lead you into something worth while?

Desire derives much of its power from the fact that it harnesses your subconscious mind.

With your conscious mind you develop and nurse a passionate longing for a strong and healthy body. Your subconscious mind knows what your real desire is. It prompts you to avoid things that are harmful. It causes you to do, willingly and without debate, the things that will hasten your success. It harnesses the same power that makes habit.

But you can't trick your subconscious mind. If your desire for health isn't real, all of your good resolutions will merely prompt your subconscious mind to wink a knowing eye as it leads you on to the dissipations and excesses you really want.

The man filled with a burning desire to get his new factory started isn't tempted to take a vacation.

The trick is to develop a desire big enough to carry you along with it.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Smith, Roosevelt and 1932.

Minneapolis Journal.

Newspaper speculation as to the likelihood of Alfred E. Smith's once more running for the Presidency has brought from some commentators the opinion that Al dares not do it, now that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is far out in front in the race for the Democratic nomination.

Mr. Smith, so these observers fallaciously argue, is under such heavy obligations to the present New York governor that his entry against Roosevelt could be construed only as indefensible ingratitude.

Poppycock and pishposh! The obligations run the other way. Under the ethics of politics, it would seem to be Roosevelt's obligation to make way for Smith, rather then Smith's obligation to make way for Roosevelt.

For what has Franklin Roosevelt done for Al Smith? Three times he has made the speech placing Smith in nomination at Democratic national conventions. And in 1928 he "consented" to run for governor at Smith's request. That's all.

Only France in the Way.

Boston Transcript.

Mr. Hoover's memorandum to the French Government, giving warning of the danger of German economic collapse in case his attempt to avert such a crisis is defeated by the opposition of that government, is fully justified by the very serious situation caused by that opposition. As the matter stands today, the Government of France is in the position of being willing to wreck the whole proposal, and of defeating it as against the sentiment of the whole world outside of France. In its essence, as affected by the concessions already made to the French requirements, the proposal is one to restore the confidence and the economic effort of the whole world and to restore it while maintaining the integrity and the continuity of the Young Plan of assuring reparation payments by Germany.

Extra Session of Congress.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Circumstances alter cases, a fact which accounts for the probability that President Hoover will call Congress into session about three weeks ahead of the date for the regular sitting December 7.

The President has been strongly opposed to calling a special session and thus giving the radicals a chance to frame further raids on the Treasury, but the desire to secure ratification by both Houses of his debt moratorium proposal is causing him to consider, according to Washington news sleuths, convening Congress ahead of time, so that the fight over the speakership can be finished, and the Houses made ready to get down to business by the time for the regular session to begin.

"Progressive" Loyalty.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Revenue From Saloons Is Declared to Be Not Worth the Price, Yet "Sob Stuff" Over Saloon Is Decried.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since I had some part in starting the series of letters to The Post on the evils of the saloon in former days, may I be permitted to say further that I have small sympathy with the ten-nights-in-the-barroom type of communication published in your paper against the saloon. It is not necessary to be an "old-timer," or even 60 years old, to recall the days of the flourishing saloon in Washington. Go no farther back than Mr. Wilson's entrance into the White House. Nor is it necessary to seek for sob stuff and the extreme melodramatic to sustain the position that we are infinitely better off without the saloon than with it.

Prohibition is an economic question with enough of moral flavor to interest the church—much as slavery was an economic question with moral implications. Sane persons who contend for the retention of the eighteenth amendment deplore fanaticism and pitiful appeals to human sympathy. They wish the question to stand on its merits. Here are the issues:

We would not have the state or the church enter into complicity with the saloon. We wish our land free from such complications. No amount of revenue accruing from a licensed saloon (and license for light wine, beer, hard liquor or what not must mean saloons) can repay for the degradation to which the country stoops to collect such revenue. It is what price revenue?

We know that if license to sell any sort of liquors would mean $1,000,000,000 or even $5,000,000,000 revenue, that money would come, not from the wealthy, but from the wages of the average workingman. The wealthy do not patronize the saloon. And they have all the liquor they want with or without the saloon. It is a case of robbing poor Peter to pay rich Paul.

Prohibition is much like slavery, where the slave owner or trafficker might have said: "Give us the good old days of human servitude and we'll pay you large revenues out of our amassed wealth." But the money thus secured would have been at the price of human blood, and the movement from freedom back to servitude would have been turning the clock of progress back to days we can never again permit to exist. Prohibition is a step forward, and while patience is required, as in case of emancipation from slavery, it is as impossible to return again to saloon days as to the days of human servitude.

Post Feature Inspires Correspondent to Philosophize on the Personal Element in Progress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "The Bees Build Well and Quickly Because None Interferes or Tears Down," by Robert Quillen in your issue of July 2, is in the humble opinion of the writer, a classic. His central thought is that man's chief enemy is man. It is painfully true that the history of mankind is, in large measure the history of the conflict of man with man.

A kindred thought is that man's greatest hindrance to real progress is found within himself. His first task is to conquer the warring elements in himself. When he has thus brought himself into control, he can go forward in overcoming the other hindrances.

Another kindred thought is that the very element in a man that enables him to make progress, is liable ultimately to work his undoing. This is illustrated conspicuously in men of rugged but strong personality who, without much training, have by their own individual efforts attained much success. Having followed their convictions to signal accomplishments, they become overly self-opinionated and finally go down to dismal doom. Happy is he who escapes this fall.

Readers will easily recall cases who have recently tumbled and the writer refrains from mentioning names. We are in fact wonderfully and fearfully situated and the need for clear-wisloned, unselfish leaders can not be overemphasized.

W. B. WITHERSPOON.

Virginian Says That Revenue From Liquor Is a Tax on Poor Devils Who Can't Afford to Pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A recent issue of The Post carries an item to the effect that the booze element told President Hoover that by repealing the eighteenth amendment the Government would receive $1,000,000 in taxes.

We wish to state that saloons pay no tax whatever. All these places pay is a portion of what is spent over their bars, which amount, of course, is collected from the poor devils who hang about these places. And be it remembered that in order to pay $1,000,000 in taxes it would require fully as much spent over the bars as was before prohibition, which would be, in a close calculation, $12,000,000.

This calculation does not include what was spent on houses of ill fame or bootleggers, or on holes in the wall, which flourished by the hundreds of thousands. E. J. CLONDEL.

Unmuzzled Dogs Are Menace to Public in the Hot Weather Season.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that hot weather is here to remain awhile, precaution must be used to prevent maddened dogs from attacking persons upon the streets and highways of Washington.

Recently a pedestrian was attacked by a dog accompanied by its owner and lead by a leash. The victim was painfully, if not seriously, bitten on the leg.

In many instances owners assume it needless to muzzle their dogs, so long as they have the pets securely fastened to leashes while taking them upon public streets for "airings." But dogs may be dangerous even though they are held by leashes.

Police officers should be more strict in enforcing the law, which requires all dogs "stray and otherwise" to be muzzled. BYSTANDER.

STALIN WILL ALTER LABOR CONDITIONS

General Overhauling to Bring About Wide Changes in Soviet Industry.

Moscow, July 5 (A.P.).—General overhauling of conditions applying to labor and industry representing significant changes and in some cases wide differences from previous practices of socialistic development, was proposed by Joseph Stalin in his latest public pronouncement.

In a speech closing the conference of industrialists June 23, which was only made public today, the "man of steel" of New Russia, took stock of the country at the end of the first five months of the year. He then declared that several changes were necessary and outlined a future program, embracing the following six points:

Readjustment of wages to make the scale commensurate with the type of labor performed, the halt of workers shifting from one place to another to improve their living conditions.

Remedy of the growing labor shortage by attracting more peasants to industries as agriculture progresses toward mechanization.

Labor Class "Intelligentsia."

Improvement of the organization of labor in industry in order to distribute the proper strength among factories and to end "irresponsible" methods.

To have the working class develop its own "intelligentsia" of such skilled workers as engineers and technicians, "new conditions demand new methods of work and leadership."

Stalin accused some of his comrades of continuing to work on the old lines despite a fundamental change of conditions of developing industry which required new methods of management. Notwithstanding this, he asserted "the production program of 1931 is real and accomplishable.

"Fulfillment of the production plan depends solely on ourselves and on our ability to utilize the existing wealth of opportunities. This is proved by the fact that the large numbers of factories and industries already have exceeded our plans.

"The reality of our production is ensured by millions of toilers creating new life, by our will to labor and our readiness to work anew with determination to fulfill the plans.

"Even under socialism wages must be paid according to the work done and not according to the needs of the workers."

Preventing Transient Labor.

Reorganization of the present system of wages is necessary if the shifting of labor is to be prevented, he said.

"In many of our factories the wage system is such as to leave no difference between the skilled and unskilled worker and between hard and easy labor," Stalin continued. "This leads to unskilled workers showing no interest in raising his qualifications, and skilled workers move from factory to factory in search of a place where their qualifications will be more valued.

"To give this shifting a free hand would undermine our industry, wreck our plan of production and stop improvement in the quality of manufactured goods. We must destroy such equal wages. It is unbearable to see the locomotive driver receiving the same wages as a bookkeeper."

This position marks the third policy regarding wages. After the revolution the scale was left to the individual industries, based on the approximate needs of the workers. Only recently the piece-work system was installed whereby the workers were paid according to production.

"Iron Fist" Policy Reversed.

Stalin's recommendation for attracting more peasants and collective farmers to industries already has found expression in the government's decree which offered special inducements in the form of privileges to the surplus agricultural labor entering industrial work.

Another important change in the proposals called for a reversal of the policy of "iron fist" toward members of the "old Bourgeois industrial intelligentsia" and adoption of an attitude welcoming them into the service of the state.

Pointing out that counter-revolutionary movements had been crushed, Stalin said that those formerly in sympathy with the interventionists were now beginning to cooperate with the working class.

"Our policy toward this intelligentsia must be changed accordingly," he said.

By adoption of modern methods of systematic business management, Stalin hopes to develop home industries and to accumulate large resources.

"By refusing us credits the capitalists hoped to retard industrialization of our country," he said. "With the aid of internal resources in our country we have rebuilt industry and agriculture."

Explorer Finds Cannibals Still Exist Among Pygmies

Herbert Bradley, Wife and Daughter Reach Paris After Six Months' Travel in Congo Forests of Africa; Discover New Little Tribe.

Paris, July 5 (A.P.).—Suppression of cannibalism among the pygmy tribes in the Belgian Congo "works about like prohibition in the United States," Herbert Bradley, African explorer of the Bradley-Bigelow expedition, said today upon his arrival here after six months' investigation in the "Dark Continent."

Traveling in the Congo forests with his wife and daughter, Alice, Mr. Bradley said he found an extremely small tribe, the tallest man being 4 and 2 inches in height. Full grown mothers were 3 feet 6 inches tall and were addicted to eating human flesh.

Belgian authorities said Bradley was doing everything possible to correct this native appetite, but the remoteness of the country and the secretive habits of the tribe made this task very difficult.

Mr. Bradley said the so-called long-headed tribe acquired this characteristic by mothers binding the heads of their infants. The explorer reported that he met a most intelligent tribesman "with a head as long as a pumpkin. He was the most interesting man I met in all Africa."

The explorer also investigated the African territory under French mandate, arriving there last January. The party crossed France's equatorial Africa on trucks and for 2,250 miles saw only six automobiles.

They were held up at Juba on the Sudanese border when three British planes were forced down before a fourth could get them out to Cairo. They plan to sail for America the last of this week.

STOCK STAMPEDE PLOT IS REVEALED

London Exchange Firms Are Sent False Cables on Gold Mine Fire.

Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, July 5 (A.P.).—An alleged attempt to stampede the London Stock Exchange by bogus coded cablegrams purporting to come from firms' brokers here was frustrated after one of the messages was found to have a slight mistake in its address.

The cablegrams, which were in Bentley's code in the name of a well-known firm here, were addressed to two London brokers. They said the West Rand Consolidated Gold Mines had been flooded and extensively damaged by fire.

Recipients of the communications were told that this news was 24 hours in advance of any published accounts of the occurrence and were advised to sell their West Rand holdings at once.

One of the London firms noted a slight error in the address and became suspicious. It made inquiries which revealed the falsity of the message.

Meanwhile, the false news had circulated about London and considerable selling took place, but the stocks soon recovered. Police have started an investigation of the incident.

Alexander Berkman Ordered From France

Paris, July 5 (A.P.).—Alexander Berkman, formerly a speaking partner of Emma Goldman, has been ordered to leave France, but will be allowed to remain three months while the government investigates his case further, he said today.

Berkman, who recently had been living in a small hotel in Montparnasse under the name of Bergemann, declared France had no cause to expel him and asserted that he had taken no part in political activities. This was the third expulsion order against him.

Peruvian Revolt Held Waning as 4 Are Slain

Arica, Chile, July 5 (A.P.).—At least four persons were killed in fighting between loyal Peruvian troops and rebels, who were said to be making their last stand at Cuzco, according to reports from across the border today.

In Lima the central government issued a bulletin saying its forces were continuing to pursue the rebels in the vicinity of Cuzco and that troops which were sent to put down the uprising were making satisfactory progress.

REFUEL SHIP 'LOST,' TOKYO HOP DELAYED

Seattle, Wash., July 5. (A.P.).—Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, of Fort Worth, Tex., today awaited definite word from their refueling plane which left Edmonton, Alberta, early yesterday for Fairbanks, Alaska, before starting their projected non-stop flight to Tokyo.

Although the refueling plane was due at Fairbanks last night, no definite word had been heard of it since it flew over the sixth cabin telegraph station north of Hazelton, B. C., yesterday afternoon.

A message from Whitehorse, Y. T., dated Saturday but not received until today because of wire trouble, said the plane had not reached Whitehorse at 6 p. m.

Robbins and Jones said they would leave here on their transpacific flight as soon as the weather was favorable after the refueling plane reaches Fairbanks. They intend to refuel the Fort Worth over Fairbanks and later over Siberia.

Robbins was unable to say today when they might get away from Seattle. Both fliers, however, were pleased to hear their refueling plane had gotten over the rugged mountain country between Edmonton and Hazelton. They believe the plane may have landed either at Whitehorse or Dawson last night and the fliers have been unable to get word to Seattle.

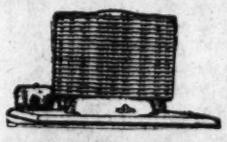
Over the Top

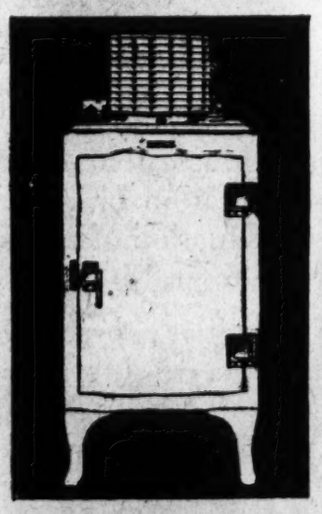


With the MONITOR TOP

AGAIN the GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR GOES "OVER THE TOP"—local sales for the month of June having surpassed all previous records for this month!

In making this announcement, the National Electrical Supply Co., distributor of General Electric Refrigerators, sincerely thanks its countless patrons for their generous interest, cooperation and good will.

A great sales record in April . . . a still greater record in May . . . and now an unprecedented June!



These three smashing months, combined with a strong early start, have made the first six months of 1931 the greatest six months in the history of General Electric Refrigeration in Washington.

During this period more than 65 carloads of General Electric Refrigerators were delivered into homes and apartments in Washington and vicinity, REPRESENTING A TOTAL RETAIL VALUE OF OVER $650,000.

Unequalled quality of product, matched by prompt and courteous service, are responsible for this record.

NOW—with July at hand—we hope for the continued support of our many friends in making the last half of 1931—THE FINAL PERIOD OF A RECORD-BREAKING YEAR.

TEAM WORK

SUCCESSFUL wedded life is largely due to perfect teamwork. The husband makes. The wife saves. Very few poor men have ever become rich men without the help of their wives.

WHERE the husband applies himself diligently to labor and the wife applies herself with equal diligence to conservation of the family resources, it almost inevitably follows that their wealth is accumulated in a bank.

Water Draws Capital Folk On Week-End

Until Labor Day Society in Town Will Spend Time on Boats.

WITH Chesapeake Bay so accessible and the Potomac River at their doors, it is strange so many Washingtonians seek other places for their summer boating. But in spite of the many who go to Newport, Bar Harbor, Narragansett, the North Shore and a dozen other watering places, numbers still keep their boats in the Potomac and content themselves with short trips every week-end, and frequent evenings during the week, when they cruise to Mount Vernon or Alexandria, depending on the speed of their crafts.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bowie Chipman, who returned from Europe at the end of May, have been entertaining aboard their cruiser, Risna, and Mr. Chipman, who is remaining in town until later in the summer, will continue to sail the river. Mrs. Chipman has left for their summer home, La Maisonette, a charming villa on a high hill among the deep pines overlooking a broad expanse of water at Castine, Me. Their son, Mr. Norris Chipman, who is in the consular service and now in Paris, where he has been completing his studies will come to this country at the middle of July for a vacation and will join his mother in Maine.

Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Borden have gone to their summer home, Utowana, at Chaumont, N. Y., where the former will spend a short holiday, and Mrs. Borden and their children will stay through the summer, enjoying excursions on the lake in their boat Bemo.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost have gone to their summer place at Woods Hole, Mass., and like all vacationers at Cape Cod, spent much of their time in the water on their boat, the Penzance.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gwynn Gardiner have not yet left for their summer place, Gwynhaven, at Waldorf, Md., but have been cruising on the river in their yacht The Squire, over the holiday week-end, with a party of friends including Mr. and Mrs. Philip Heuysler, of Baltimore, and their son, and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Gardiner. Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor have started by motor for their summer home at Baddeck, Nova Scotia, and will stop at Amherst on their way north. Their home has the quaint Scotch name, Beinn Bheagh, and their cruiser, which is constantly seen drifting in the cold blue waters, is the Elsie.

A gay party is that which Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Noyes entertained over the week-end at Fisher's Island, when their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKnew. The McKnews are spending a part of the summer in town making frequent trips on their beautiful boat which at present lies in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kurtz are at Fisher's Island for the summer as well as Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adair.

It is always the July 4 week-end that starts the real holiday mood, and from now until after Labor Day, only those who must will remain on terra firma from Friday until Monday.

The American Ambassador, John North Willys and Mrs. Willys gave a dinner to the President de la Republic Thursday at Warsaw, Poland.

Among those present were: Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Son Excellence le Minister et Madam Zalenska, Count and Countess Romer, Prince and Princess Lubomirski, Comtesse Tyszkiewicz, Comtesse Potocka, Comtesse Sobanska, Comtesse Dzieduszycka, Comtesse Czosnowska and Count Joseph Potocki, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Baruch, Colonel et Madame Glogowski, Mrs. Moeyling, Miss Baruch, Miss Donahoe, Miss Mitilineu, Former Ambassador to Italy Robert Underwood Johnson, Monsieur Moscicki, Son Excellence le Minister Beck, Monsieur Helczynski, Monsieur Lipski, Monsieur Marchlewski, Son Excellence le Minister Patek, Minister to Moscow and Former Minister of Foreign Affairs Monsieur Szumlakowski, Monsieur Wiley, Major Yeager.

Lieut. Comdr. Feliz Quiroga, Lieut. Comdr. Antonio Galvache, and Lieut. Comdr. Ramon Sainz de los Terreros, the three young officers of the Spanish Navy who have been visiting in Washington the last three weeks, have sailed for their home in Spain. They have recently completed two years of study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where they specialized in engineering.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall will close their house on Tracy place, July 15, and will go to Cape May, N. J., where they have taken a cottage for the remainder of the season. Mrs. Marshall left last night for Wheeling, W. Va., to spend a week with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Paull, and will return to Washington to join Mr. Marshall and their sons, Mr. Jack Marshall and Mr. Paul Marshall, before leaving for the beach.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ellwood Jones, with their daughter, Miss Nancy Jones, will leave later in the month for their home in the mountains of West Virginia. Later Mrs. Jones and her daughter will go to the Muskoka Lakes in Canada for a visit, and about August 15 will go to Cape May for the remainder of the season. Jimmy Jones has gone to camp in New Hampshire for the summer.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, and Mrs. Freeman have opened their summer home at Sorrento, Me., after a leisurely motor trip North, during which they made a detour through northern New York.

The Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, and Mrs. Bratenahl and their sons, Charles and Alexander Bratenahl, are at their summer home in Gloucester, Mass.

Mrs. George Barnett, who has been recuperating from her recent illness at her home on Rhode Island avenue, will leave for her country place, Wakefield Manor, Virginia, tomorrow. She will be joined there by her daughter, Mrs. Henry Suydam, and her grandson, Henry Suydam 2d. Mrs. Walter P. Montague, Mrs. Barnett's mother, is also a house guest at Wakefield Manor.

Miss Dorothy Sollers is guest of her cousin, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, of Washington, at the latter's summer home, Harrison House, in Newport.

Paris Colony Honors Wife Of Marshal

Miss Washington Gives Union Reception for Mme. Lyautey.

The last few days in Paris have been busy ones for officials of the American exhibit at the Colonial Exposition. Saturday Mount Vernon, in its new setting, almost as lovely, if different, from the real heights above the Potomac, welcomed many Americans in France to Vincennes Park, where Miss Anne Madison Washington, official hostess at the exposition, graciously received those who came on the greatest day of their country.

A few days before, in the "Grande Semaine," the great week of the season, during which all Paris looks forward to the races and other gay events, Miss Washington entertained at a large reception at the Union Interalliee in honor of Mme. Lyautey, wife of Marshal Lyautey.

Perfect weather, with glorious sun and a cool breeze, made brilliant the beautiful gardens of the Union. Over 400 members of the Franco-American colony were present, among them the American Ambassador and Mrs. Walter E. Edge, Mr. C. Bascom Slemp and Mr. Charles H. Burke, commissioners at the exposition; the Marquis and Marquise de Chambrun, Mme. Paul Claudel, wife of the French Ambassador; former Senator and Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Mrs. Claude A. Summer Cuts British Staff Here in Half Ambassador Will Make Trip to England at End of Month.

For many years the staff of the British Embassy took up a summer residence at Manchester-by-the-sea, Mass., and often the Ambassador also spent the summer in that resort. This year, Lady Lindsay has established herself at Bar Harbor, and Sir Ronald, the present Ambassador, is making plans for a trip to England. He had expected to sail next week, but affairs of state and other business have compelled him to postpone the trip until the end of the month. He will probably join Lady Lindsay at Bar Harbor for a short stay before sailing.

The retiring Counselor of the Embassy, Mr. Ronald Campbell, will leave some time next week for England, and will then proceed to his new post in Cairo. His successor, Mr. Francis d'Arcy Godolphin Os-

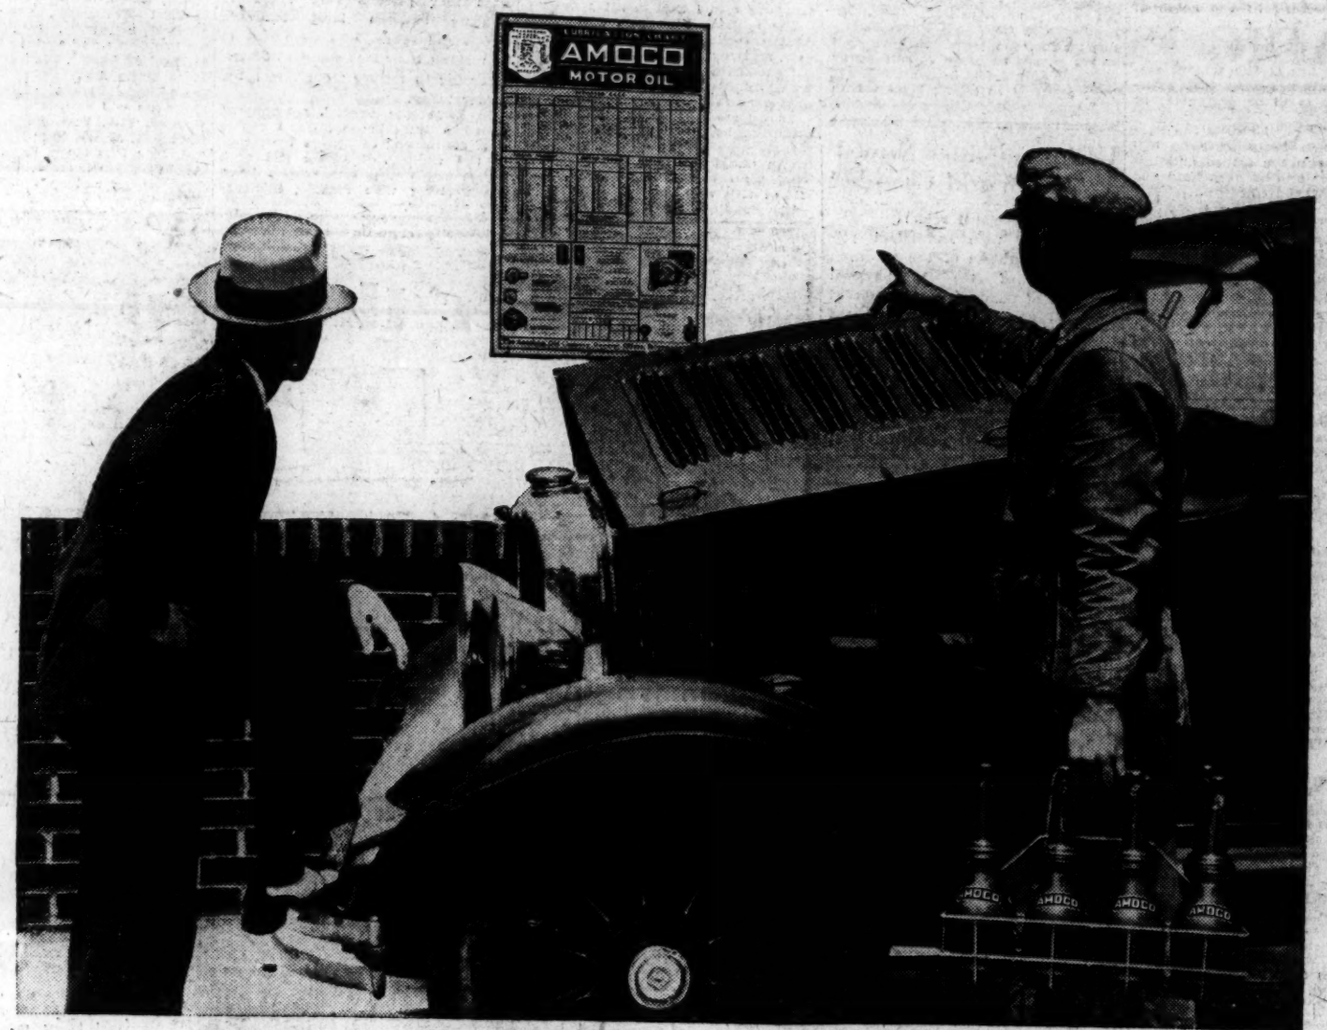
Depreciation OR APPRECIATION?



DEPRECIATION is recognized as the largest individual item of expense involved in the operation of a car. So if there is to be any reduction of car expense, depreciation is the logical item to cut.

The best way to reduce depreciation is by having your car regularly lubricated with the proper grades of Amoco Motor Oils (100% Pure Paraffine Base) and Greases.

Drive into any Amoco station—your car will be thoroughly lubricated by experts, using only the best lubricants, Amoco Motor Oils and Greases. And it will be lubricated according to the Amoco Motor Oil Chart, which follows the specifications of the engineers who designed your car.

Let the Amoco Motor Oil Chart be the "Health Chart" for your Motor—it'll change "depreciation to appreciation".

WASHINGTONIANS who are not among the fortunates invited to be present at fetes arranged for Wiley Post and Harold Gatty today will be able to tune in on the ceremonies anyway. Both NBC and CBS coast-to-coast networks will carry the proceedings.

The first broadcast will be heard when the National Press Club offers the fliers its congratulations at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, will represent President Hoover.

Later Post and Gatty will be given a banquet jointly by the National Aeuronautic Association and the Washington Board of Trade. Hon. Hiram Bingham, the "flying senator" from Connecticut will introduce the fliers. Gatty, Post and their backer, F. C. Hall, of Oklahoma, will speak. The banquet will be attended by members of the Diplomatic Corps, high Government officials and other prominent people of the Capital.

A new comedy act, "Bird and Wash," unreeling the adventures of two middle-aged women, will have its premiere tonight (WMAL, 8:45) and thereafter will be heard daily except Sunday at the same time.

AN outstanding musical event tonight is the second of the series of special Packard programs, featuring Cyrena Van Gordon, young American contralto, who attained stardom with the Chicago Civic Opera after one year of voice training, and Anna Case, former Metropolitan prima donna.

Opening of the fourteenth biennial national convention of the Catholic Daughters of America will be broadcast today (WMAL, 5 p. m.). Among those scheduled to speak are the Most Rev. William Joseph Hafey, Bishop of Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Mary C. Duffy, supreme regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, and John B. Kennedy.

Perhaps the brilliant cornet solos played from time to time by Edwin Franko Goldman's featured cornetist, Del Staigers, are prominently placed on the program due to the fact that Goldman himself gained musical fame through this instrument. He studied the cornet under the great Jules Levy, and for ten years was cornetist in the Metropolitan Opera House.

A SPECIAL revue, with George Jessel as m. c., will feature Irene Bordoni, Belle Baker, Helen Kane, the Virginia Judge, James Barton, and Guy Lombardo's Canadians, tonight (WMAL, 9 o'clock).

The GM Family Party will resume the even tenor of its way with the return of the Revelers to the hour tonight, after the recent European tour (WRC, 8:30 o'clock).

With a change in time and length of broadcasts, WMAL will present a series of Crime Club programs twice weekly, beginning tonight at 8 p. m., which it was unable to take heretofore.

Listeners who enjoy following the adventuring of Mary and Bob will find this program on WRC's wave length tonight at 9. It formerly was heard on Friday at 9 p. m., CBS.

THE continued popularity of the Slumber Hour, even though it is only a half-hour now, and Ann Leaf's Nocturne, is attributed to the fact that these programs are oases in the desert for those who desire to hear semiclassical and classical music later in the evening.

Thirty-five complete bands, totaling 1,500 musicians, will play a group of noted marches in the Elks massed-band concert to be broadcast from the Seattle Civic Auditorium (WJZ network, tomorrow at 6 p. m.). This concert is a feature of the annual B. P. O. E. convention.

Tone pictures, conducted by Domenico Savino, will feature Julia Mahoney, soprano (WMAL; tomorrow night, 9:30.).

CBS should have had an evening feature for such singers as Miss Mahoney, Adele Vasa, Crane Calder, Evan Evans and the others, who are heard regularly in the afternoon, long before this.

ONE of the best-known local entertainers, Chick Godfrey, the singing Marine, will return to the microphone over WOL Wednesday night, after a month's absence. On a tour in the interest of the recent Marine Corps recruiting drive, Chick sang over WIP, WFAN, WCAU, WLIT, WELK, Philadelphia, WPG, Atlantic City, and WCAM, Camden.

A new weekly program featuring Howard Barlow and an augmented symphony orchestra, will be introduced Wednesday night (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.).

THE pet kitten of Andy Sannella, who plays a guitar about as well as he plays a saxophone in the orchestra program which he directs each week-day morning, is called "Sax."

A Interprets the MODE

Unusual afternoon frock of blue wool crepe, with pleated skirt and bolero trimming, zigzag stitched tucks and a dotted silk crepe blouse. (Courtesy of Mirande, Paris.)

New York, July 5.

DID I ever tell you that I know a special fashion sleuth who does nothing but snoop around all the smartest rendezvous to see what she can see? Occasionally she writes me a letter giving me the low-down on all the high spots of the mode as seen in the haunts of fashion. I've just received one from her from Deauville, where she's been for the opening of the season there. And it's so full of interesting tid-bits that I simply have to tell you what she says.

"I haven't seen one, single, solitary ensemble for day or evening where the dress and wrap are of the same color and material. Lots of dresses in heavy white materials, as well as flannel skirts and tuck-in blouses worn with tailored jackets in navy, green and brown, seen mornings. Chanel's redingote in beige jersey with four pockets and no belt seen all over the place. And for less 'sporty' occasions, women here actually like short-sleeved jackets worn over long-sleeved dresses in a contrasting color. What do you think of a short-sleeved brown jacket worn over a long-sleeved dress in green or pink? Well, they're both favored combinations around these parts.

"A lot of awfully smart women still wear felt hats of a morning, which was a surprise to me. Of course, straw—chip straw, picot and crocheted straw, &c., or what you have—is used for sailors. The newest sailors have round crowns, and the brim turned up in back and are worn way over on the right side of the head. And then there are lots of brimless bonnets usually knitted of wool and likewise posed way down over the right eye.

"White satin evening gowns are almost a uniform—but rosy beige and green and pale blue satin have their admirers, too. Lots of black and white chiffons, but very, very few printed chiffons, in spite of everything. And jackets barely reaching the waist are mostly in bright, bright colors in satin and velvet."

* * * *

I wonder how we ever dared to think of wool crepe as an ordinary, uninspiring material? For today it's anything but! 'N' to prove it I have sketched for you the little informal suit from Mirande of blue wool crepe that does an assortment of unusual and delightful things. For instance, the skirt is finely pleated, as are the bands on the tiny, short-sleeved bolero, and then tucks in the new zigzag pattern are used both around the hips of the skirt and on the bolero. And not to be outdone in unusuality, as it were, the little crepe de chine blouse of blue, dotted with tiny white dots, cuts its sleeves, collar and waist hem into jagged points and wears the collar outside the bolero to show itself to the world as much as possible!

So—if you want something besides silk, and yet have been afraid of dowdiness in the wool field, just look at this sketch and be comforted!

* * * *

Are you a criminal? Are you guilty of assault 'n' battery 'n' thoughtless and complete cruelty to a little dumb animal that just simply can't speak up for himself—'cause he's dead? Shame on you, then! 'N' for your own sake as well as that of the little fox I'll tell you how to prevent such cruelty and preserve much beauty at the same time! For, of course, I'm talking about the foolish practice so many lovely ladies have of just flinging down their perishable foxes anywhere—and there's nothing more destructive to their loveliness than this careless habit! And the cure? Just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet telling how to make a smart bag that keeps M'sier Fox from any injurious contact!

* * * *

And of course you want to be reminded of the weekly Dare fashion letter which appears each Sunday in The Washington Post.

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

22

IF YOU CAN'T ATTACK, WAIT!

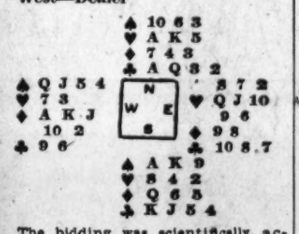
CARD games, like Chess, are wars in miniature—and I am not referring to the traditional battles between partners. The structure of a deck of cards is that of organizations of troops in the field. The low cards are the masses of troops and the honors are the leaders—the officers.

The modern game of Contract Bridge carries the analogy even further. It has a most striking characteristic of modern warfare. Military preparation is a constant battle between security measures on the one hand and destructive devices on the other.

The War College of Contract has devised the Approach Forcing System. It is a powerful, effective implement of aggressive bidding, which erects its defenses as it takes the field to attack. To keep the balance even, so that powerful hands, no matter how well bid and played, may still fall before sufficiently cunning, subtle tactics, the same War College of Contract has invented weapons of deadly effect against even the most strongly fortified Declarer.

The following deal in a recent Contract game at the Allentown, Pa., Country Club employed two of the most powerful implements of the Approach Forcing System. One side arrived at a perfectly sound declaration through the application of the Rule of Eight (our Intelligence Division) but the opponent completely demolished Declarer's fort, blowing it up with a "Waiting" or Short Suit Lead.

Contract Deal—No score
All vulnerable
West—Dealer



The bidding was scientifically accurate, but brief. West opened with a bid of one diamond with the 2-½ honor-tricks required by the Approach Forcing System. North doubled for a Takeout, having ½ trick more than the 3 honor-tricks necessary for a Takeout Double. East passed and South found himself faced with an interesting problem.

The South hand was of the 4-3-3-3 type of distribution, which I like to call "Hyprocrite" because it is a type of holding that so frequently is able to conceal its essential sinfulness by a convicing display of honor strength. It is practically valueless at a suit declaration and the worst feature of it is that (as in this case), the hypocritical distribution may find its reflection in the partner's holding.

South had a close choice between bidding three clubs, announcing real strength (which a mere two club Takeout would not announce) and making a strong notrump Takeout, which would imply an even notrump distribution and, at the same time, indicate its full power.

South with 3 honor-tricks (Spade A K—2 plus Club K J—1—3) can figure that the North-South hand contains 6 honor-tricks, one-half more than enough to produce game. Applying the Rule of Eight, South figures that the East hand probably holds nothing in the way of honor-trick values. The average deal produces 8 to 8½ honor-tricks. As a matter of fact, this particular hand has 9 honor-tricks, which is rare, indeed. Even with a doubtful stopper in the adversely bid diamonds, South decided that with a probably trickless hand in the East his Queen would not be led through and, therefore, would turn out to be a real stopper. He, therefore, called three notrump.

West, North and East passed and West was forced to lead.

Leading a diamond in the face of South's declaration was unthinkable. Spades could not be opened with a Queen Knave in its powerful tenace position over Declarer's hand. Opening with a short suit, therefore, was necessary in order to preserve inviolate West's tenace position in spades and diamonds.

This is a "Waiting Lead." It gives up to opponents the right to lead in order to retain a greater advantage. West chose to lead the nine of clubs, selecting the clubs rather than the hearts because he knew that the lead of either suit would be read by Declarer as a short suit lead and the heart 7 might mislead his partner. West had a real reason for not revealing to Declarer the character of his heart holding.

Declarer continued the clubs, looking for a hint from opponent's discards as to the suit most likely to throw West in the lead. West, however, on the third and fourth trick discarded the 10 and the deuce of diamonds. This told South nothing that he did not already know. On the Ace and King of spades West played the four and five. On the Ace and King of hearts West played the three and seven.

Declarer was still in the dark. Where were the two major Queens? He was forced to guess, and guessed wrong. He led a heart, which was taken by East and Declarer lost the remaining 5 tricks.

Thus was an impregnable fortress sapped and mined into oblivion.

Today's Pointer

The Approach Forcing System always prefers a biddable suit in opening the bidding, (even a four-card suit) to a notrump. Notrump declarations are arrived at usually only after previous bidding conversation between the partners has shown honor-trick values and distribution. Original notrump bids are made in this System only when the hand contains no biddable suit but has the honor-trick count justifying the bid.

GARDENS

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

SOME OF THE NEWER VARIETIES.

WE ALL desire varieties that are a bit different, provided they are worth while. To enjoy fully the lovely colors of the newer flowers—to add to the beauty of one's garden and home—we must have some knowledge of the plants before we purchase them.

Among all the recent introductions, and you know there are dozens of new varieties that find their way into the catalogues each year, there is none that excels the hardy chrysanthemum. In fact, there are no other plants in the garden which in the autumn bring more enjoyment than do the chrysanthemums. The splendid new varieties rival in brilliancy the annuals of summer.

Each year has seen a greater appreciation for these flowers, and justly so. Among the pompon varieties the Ouray is a rich bronze with a coppery glow, which blooms quite early in the season and is of medium height. The Captain R. H. Cook is another pompon variety that you are sure to like. Its color is clear deep rose, with each petal tipped with bronze. Boston is another of the newer varieties you will enjoy. It is a beautiful bronzy orange. The plant produces a great number of well-branched heads borne on tall stems and is outstanding in its hardiness. Any of these chrysanthemums measure up to the claims the growers make for them.

The hardy blue sage (Salvia pitcheri) is new and can not have too much said in praise of it. This lovely dark blue meadow sage originally came from the wilds of Colorado. The color of this sage is a deep gentian blue, blooming during August, September and October, and thriving in almost any situation. It is quite willing to take care of itself, and is so hardy it will winter, without protection, in any part of the country. Salvia pitcheri will prove a noteworthy addition to any garden.

The other plant I want to tell you about and also to recommend is the Gypsophila Bristol Fairy, the new double babysbreath. This plant was introduced in 1927. Its popularity grew and today it is considered one of the finest flowers we have for cutting. Bristol Fairy is a strong growing, exceedingly graceful plant. While the great display of snowy-white blooms occurs in June, periodically masses of flowers appear until stopped by frost.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER"

IF July 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m., and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger hours are from 7 a. m. to 8:40 a. m., and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

July 6th will not be an outstanding anniversary. Artists and writers will be favored by the astrological influences, and may be inspired to work on their masterpiece. Investments should be made with caution, and things of a speculative nature avoided.

The child born on this July 6th will make good progress in school and a course of intensive training for specialized work will not be lost on it. It will have a clean mind, high ideals, and considerable ambition. It will be much more sociable and agreeable as an adult than a child.

Born on July 6th, you are characterized as slow but sure. It may take you longer to work things out mentally than many of your associates, but you excel, when it comes to your memory. You may be handicapped in a speed race across any field of endeavor, but you seldom have to retrace your steps in order to pick up forgotten or neglected details. Your thoroughness and reliability are both assets, for which the world will pay you well.

You are highly approbative and always yearn for the sympathy of others. It is hard for you to stand up to ridicule or disapproval, and for this reason you are very conventional and afraid of adventure. You are extremely wrapped up in your entire family, and you feel keenly anything which affects the other members. Your domestic affairs will always act as a brake on your individual progress. Your loyalty, generosity and unselfishness are often solicited by those who consider they have the right to draw upon them. Your pay, however, will often be ingratitude.

You are economical and very fond of saving, and you will always be burdened with useless things which you are never willing to throw away. You greatly respect age and custom, and are very conservative in your ideals. You are inclined to become morbid and hysterical when physically ailing.

Successful people born July 6:
1—John Paul Jones—naval officer.
2—John L. Beveridge—U. S. Senator.
3—Benjamin F. Underwood—author and lecturer.
4—Roger Ward Babson—statistician.
5—Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.
6—Cecil Rhodes—empire builder.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Morris" is very common at the present time because it has come down to us from several sources. One common source of this name is the personal name "Maurice" which is ultimately of Greek origin and means "Moorish." There is evidence that in some cases it was given as a nickname meaning "the dark person." It has been found that sometimes "Morris" is a relatively late variation of "Marris." "Marris" is merely an older form of "Marsh" which is of English origin and indicates that the persons who were first so called had their residences near marshy land. It has been found that in a few cases "Morris" and its variation "Morrison" were originally "Marris" (Mary's) and "Marrison" (Mary's son). In Ireland "Morris" is found with several common variations. Some of the commonest of these are "Maurice," "Mac Maurice," "Fitzmaurice" and "Morrison." Many Irish families who bear this name have been able to trace it back to Anglo-Norman settlers who went to Ireland at an early date. However, the great majority of Irish families named "Morris" have adopted that name as the supposed English equivalent of various Celtic names. The commonest Celtic sources of "Morris" are "Mac Muiris Ruaidh," "Mac Muirgheasa," "O Muirgheasa" and "O Muirgheasain." The first of these names means "the son of red Maurice." The other three mean, respectively, "the son of Muirghear," "the descendant of Muirghear" and "the descendant of little Muirghear." The personal name "Muirghear" means "sea-choice." (The next article of this series will include further remarks concerning this name.)

FRANCES M'DONALD

Youth and Age in Conflict.

DEAR Frances McDonald: My problem is a little different from that which you have solved for many readers. But I do hope you will print an answer to mine.

Sister and I, both in the twenties, live with my father in an old-fashioned 10-room house, rather inconveniently located. We all commute to business, arriving home between 6 and 7 o'clock. My sister and I cook the dinner and attend to numerous incidentals of housekeeping. When the duties of the evening have been accomplished, there is little or no time for recreation.

As an all-around solution to this stupid orgy of work, we suggested to Dad moving to a four-room apartment in the city convenient to our offices and which would be near restaurants where we could dine occasionally, and attend an occasional movie. As both contribute to the support of our home we felt justified in offering a suggestion.

However, it met with disapproval, my father having a sentimental attachment to the old homestead which he cherishes above everything else in this life. He has no friends or business connections here—it is just the house.

Do you think my sister and I are unreasonable to leave home and take an apartment by ourselves in New York where one will have time to entertain, enjoy our home and live our own lives? BEWILDERED.

My dear, suppose you and your sister had married, your father would have to adjust his life accordingly—would he not? So why now should you be doomed to such a dull life as you describe?

The fact that the house holds dear memories for your father is, after all no reason why you and your sister should dedicate your young lives to these memories—is it? If your circumstances were different, if, for instance, he were in poor health or in want then my advice and opinion would be different. But when it is merely a matter of his whim against your comfort and convenience, then I say you have a right to something more than day work and night work. If he wishes to remain in the house he can rent it to people who will board him.

Children who sacrifice their lives to their parents are seldom even thanked for their generosity. Invite your father to accompany you. If he refuses let that end it. But he will probably come along once he knows that you mean business. And he too will be better for the change. Too deep an attachment for memories is unhealthy. Dig him out.

BEACH LOTS HELD GOOD INVESTMENT

Property Value Will Grow as Homes Are Built, Is Advice.

Buy now and watch your property grow in value as the Woodland Beach community grows in size and importance. That is the advice to those who have not already become lot owners at this summer home site on the South River of Maryland.

Investing in property at Woodland Beach not only will furnish you with a fine location for a summer home but in case you are unable to use the site each year during the warm months, you will be able to dispose of your holdings at a probable profit.

Each purchase at Woodland Beach improves the property of all the other lot owners and when a majority of these lot owners have constructed cottages on their property, the entire area will increase in value accordingly.

If you are in on the "ground floor" through a purchase at this time, you will be able to watch your community grow and have a hand in the regulation of it. Don't wait for somebody else to act first, select your lot now and make your plans to build as others have already built.

Another improvement in the area which will mean much to Woodland Beach owners is the new bridge over South River on Maryland State highway No. 2, which is one of the roads leading to the beach. This $750,000 structure, similar to that over the Severn River at Annapolis, will increase the beauty along the river, aid in straightening out the road and generally improve property in the neighborhood.

Remember that an investment at Woodland Beach is not a costly proposition which will overburden you for a long time. Any lot on the place is available at a standard price —$93. Better still, you do not have to pay that amount in cash. Just scrape together $9 plus the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post and presto—you are a Woodland Beach lot owner. Then each month you pay $3.50 until the balance has been settled.

For the warm summer months Woodland Beach has just what the doctor ordered. Bathing, boating and fishing for those inclined toward sport; shady nooks for those who just want to rest, and playground apparatus for the children. Pick your lot today and start planning that summer home.

Caldwell Breach Case Still in Jury's Hands

The charge was given by Judge Chester A. Ware yesterday afternoon, and the jury was scheduled to make a report when court opens tomorrow morning. A message from the jurors late last night said no verdict had been reached. The indictment against Caldwell charges violation of a trust agreement between Hardeman County and Caldwell & Co.

MARBERRY HURLS NATS TO 4-2 VICTORY OVER MACKS;

VON ELM AGAIN RALLIES TO TIE BURKE IN OPEN GOLF

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

NOTED AT GRIFFITH STADIUM: Five and a half games behind the A's. . . There's a difference in the two clubs. . . The Nats have to be clicking in all departments to win consistent. . . The A's can play bad baseball and still win. . . With that long-distance wallop in the line up. . . Connie Mack waved his score card to his outfielders as early as the first inning. . . He's the best outfielder in the American League, they say. . . The wolves in the stands yelled for Marberry's scalp after Simmons' single in the first. . . The bleachers lacking a couple of thousand from capacity. . . With 30-day blue shirts the predominating color. . . And the empty portable seats in dead center field mute testimony of the Nats' double defeat in New York. . . Else they would have been filled. Mule Haas' motion at the plate. . . One of our best grand stand players. . . Ever since he made a heroic catch in Yankee Stadium two years ago. . . He still makes the easy ones look hard. . . But he can field the ball out there. . . Not a man on base for the Nats in two innings. . . But Earnshaw made a self-defense stab of West's liner. . . Kuhel the first to break through Earnshaw's service. . . In the third. . . It was a double down the frist base line, Kuhel's alley. . . Third base used to be Ruel's alley. . . Spencer should have been out at the plate on Myers' single in the third. . . Cochrane played a blind man's bluff with Simmons' throw which was perfect. . . Jimmy Foxx and Jimmy Dykes. . . A couple of stylish stouts. . . Both went out on strikes in the fourth. . . And there's no streamlines on Bing Miller. . . The official scoring was finely drawn in the Nats' fourth. . . On West's tap down the first base line. . . An error for Foxx for his poor throw to Earnshaw. . . And an error for Earnshaw when he dropped the ball, allowing Cronin to advance all the way to third. . . Jimmy Dykes made one of his copyrighted dives after Spencer's hit in the fourth. . . To no avail. . . He's one of baseball's best plungers. . . Spends a lot of time picking himself up off the ground. . . Mr. Myer lost no time scampering to third base on Earnshaw's three-base error on his bunt. . . He can pick 'em up and lay 'em down with great facility when the need arises. . . Mickey Cochrane made no mistakes on Harry Rice's high pop that followed. . . Mickey was no special bargain on pop flies when he came into the league. . . But he's improved. . . He had lots to say to Dineen on a called strike in the sixth. . . Just before he pounded the next pitch on a line over the right field wall. . . And he favored Dineen with a smile as he crossed the plate. . . What a whale of a difference a home run makes. . . Marberry was gathering speed along about the sixth. . . Lifting his left leg higher in his wind-up. . . That's an indication. . . It was a fast ball that Cochrane slammed. . . And a fast ball that grazed Simmons' arm. . . A breach of etiquette in the sixth. . . A citizens snooper in the stands tossed a foul ball back onto the field. . . Amid a crescendo of razz. . . Earnshaw looked bad on a bunt for the third time in the game when Kuhel beat out a tap down the first base line. . . He was out stealing a moment later. . . Cochrane's throw was a perperfect. . . It had to be. . . Neither could Slim Harris field a bunt when he was with the A's. . . But in Boston one day when Harriss was pitching for the Red Sox Bucky Harris ordered the first seven men to face him to bunt. . . And all seven were thrown out at first. . . Harry Rice's catch of Cochrane's fly in the seventh netted him a salvo of cheers. . . But sent Johnson's heart beat soaring. . . 'Cause he misjudged the ball and ran ten yards before going back thirty to make the catch over his shoulder. . . Almost a boner. . . Marberry took care to throw Simmons no balls high and outside. . . Where he loves 'em. . .

Detroit Star's 12-Foot Putt for Birdie Evens Score on 36th Green

4,000 See Pros Get 149s; Burke Loses 4-Stroke Lead.

Von Elm Shoots Four Birdies in Row; to Play Again Today.

took the lead once more by a stroke on the thirty-third, a treacherous 441-yard layout where Von Elm took what appeared to be a disastrous six. The setting for another dramatic finish was perfection itself, therefore, after they halved the next two holes and both walloped beautiful drives from the last tee.

For two successive days this home hole has taken terrific punishment from Von Elm, and this, it seemed, increased his confidence as he strode toward it, while a gallery of nearly 4,000 spectators scrambled for points of vantage. Both pitched well on, Burke 20 feet away and Von Elm 12. Billie putted first and missed by slightly more than 2 feet. George, as game a fighter as American golf has ever known, set his square jaw firmly, lined the putt carefully and stroked it in for the birdie three, his third in four successive rounds on this hole. It clinched the deadlock, as Burke got down his short one without hesitation.

Rivals Tired at Finish.

They were a tired, almost exhausted pair of warriors as they wound up today's battle just where they had started off on a golfing jaunt that at several stages seemed likely to become a rout, for one or the other. In the end, neither cracked and it would take a soothsayer to predict the eventual winner of this Marathon, which has gone far beyond expectations already. It had been figured that the closest kind of a fight would be waged for the crown that Bobby Jones relinquished, among others, but it will smash all records before it is completed.

Only once before in United States open championship history have two play-off rounds been required to settle the winner. This was in 1925 at Worcester, Mass., where Willie MacFarlane and Bobby Jones tied at the end of one round, were forced to go another round before MacFarlane triumphed. At that time, however, only 18 holes were required for a decision so that the play-off went only 36 holes or a total of 108 holes for each of these stars.

Today's brace of rounds through heat, wind and rain, each contestant alternately erratic and brilliant. Unquestionably they felt the strain and the effects of another day of blazingly hot weather. Von Elm struck the widest range of shot-making as he tallied rounds of 75 and 74. Burke, with scores of 73 and 76, was wilder than at any time in the past forthight of brilliant golf. Repeatedly he saved himself with spectacular shots on and around the green.

Burke in Lead Most Of Way.

Steadier, for the most part, Burke held a lead of from one to four strokes most of the day. He was two strokes in front at the end of the morning round due largely to a pair of "breaks" in his favor that might have broken the spirit of any golfer less courageous than Von Elm.

At the ninth and twelfth holes of the first round Burke holed out from off the green for birdies on the longest two holes of Inverness. At the 492-yard ninth, after exploding short with his third from a trap, Billie took a No. 3 iron and chipped his ball into the cup, as Von Elm's ball

Tilden Rated Second In Pro Tennis Tourney

New York, July 5 (U.P.).—The national Professional Tennis Championship will start tomorrow at Forest Hills Stadium, with Vincent Richards, three-time title-holder, defending his honors against the strongest field in the history of the tournament.

William Tilden, 2nd, who entered the professional ranks last winter and scored numerous victories over Richards in exhibition matches, hae been seeded No. 2 and is a strong favorite to replace the champion, who has been given the honorary No. 1 seeded berth.

Other seeded entrants are Karel Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, Albert Burke, of France, Charles M. Wood and Francis T. Hunter.

Wilson's Hit in Eleventh Wins for Cubs, 2 to 1

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—Pat Malone pitched almost perfect baseball after the first inning today, fielded sensationally, and then led the way to the winning run in the tenth inning as the Cubs defeated St. Louis, 2 to 1, in the first game of the series.

Adams opened the game with a double, went to third on Jimmy Wilson's single and scored as Watkins hit into a double play.

Chicago tied the score in the ninth when Hack Wilson singled and took second on a wild pitch. Gabby Hartnett came through in the pinch with a single to center that tied the score after two were out.

In the tenth Malone knocked a two-bagger to left center. Jurges sacrificed him to third and Derringer walked English and Cuyler to fill the bases. The strategy didn't work, for Hack Wilson knocked a hit over second, scoring Malone and winning the game.

Choices Win In D. C. Net Tourney

Mangan, Moorhead, Hermann, Trigg, Shore Advance.

Judd Beaten by Garnett; Doubles Champions Triumph.

THE largest cumbersome field of tennis players entered in the forty-fourth District of Columbia men's singles and doubles championship, was successfully whittled to a more compact mass yesterday as play continued throughout the day on the courts at Rock Creek. Nothing that would make the local seismograph function occurred in the way of upsets, although one hardy veteran was eliminated along the way.

Five favorites emerged from decisive matches to step into the fourth round of play, while the bulk of the field remained in the third. This quintet is composed of Tom Mangan, twice winner of the event; Frank Shore, one of the rising younger stars; J. L. Moorhead, the city's eleventh ranking player; Gene Hermann and Hugh Tripp, public parks stars. None of the five was pressed to win.

Garnett Surprises Judd.

The nearest thing to an upset yesterday occurred when Muscoe Garnett, steady-stroking public courts player, eliminated Dean Judd, veteran Bureau of Standards ace, in a bitter three-set struggle which easily topped all matches played in point of consistent excellence. The scores, 5—7, 8—6, 6—4 about tell the story of the closeness of the struggle. After winning the first set, Judd led 5—4 in the second, only to see his big chance crumble away in the face of a good rally by Garnett on his service. There was much free-hitting throughout, and some of the best net play of the year.

Moorehead caught Garnett on the rebound and allowed him but three games.

The defending doubles champions, Bob Considine and Tom Mangan, easily passed their first assignment, defeating Packer and Mehl, 6—1, 6—0. Something of a sensation was caused when the officials of the tournament defaulted the team of Dolf Muehleisen and Lieut. S. K. Robinson, seeded

Late Pirates' Rally Defeats Reds, 6 to 4

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 5 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati, 6 to 4, here today when the Pirate reserves swarmed all over Si Johnson in the eighth to score four runs and sew up the game. Four singles and a triple off Johnson, ace of the Red hurling staff, who had relieved Rixey in the seventh, turned the trick.

SOUHERN TENNIS DELAYED.

Birmingham, Ala., July 5 (A.P.).—Play in the Southern Lawn Tennis Association tournament today was postponed because of wet grounds, leaving the finals in the boys singles and the semifinals and finals in the junior singles yet to be completed.

Tournament officials said these matches would be played between matches in the men's and women's singles, scheduled to get under way tomorrow.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

THIS is the time of the year when the minor league cry of "split season" is heard resounding through the summer breeze, if any. In several leagues over the far-flung baseball map teams are so far out in front they never will be overtaken, barring drastic upsets. So the second division teams and some of the first division clubs would like a new deal and to start all over again.

The agitation has been heard in the Southern Association, where Birmingham seems to have a double arm and head lock on the pennant, and in the Pacific Coast League, where Hollywood has had things pretty much its own way of late.

The Arizona-Texas League already has finished the first half of its season and started another one. This circuit, however, did not split the season for lack of a close race. The schedule called for it. Bisbee-Douglas won the first half championship by just one game from Tucson, with El Paso only two games back. Phoenix, heading the second division, was only four games out of first place.

The Hollywood Club of the Pacific Coast League might add Wade (Red Dog) Killefer to its pay roll with profit. Before a game at Los Angeles, the former Mission manager asked Jack Sherlock, first baseman of the Stars, why he was not hitting home runs. The former Phillie was the only regular who had not connected for a round trip.

Sherlock could not explain, but reminded the well-known figure in baseball that the season and the night was young. He missed a third strike on his first chance at the plate, but came back with a home run in the third inning and another in the fourth, the circuit wallops winning the game for Oscar Vitt's team.

A Mexican general, not identified by name, was surprised to win a bet he didn't know he had made on an Agua Caliente race. Offering a bookmaker $20 and naming his horse he was told the entry had been scratched. "Excuse me," said the general. Before he could move away the bookie took his money and handed him a ticket.

Some time later, after the race, one of his staff looked at the ticket the puzzled general displayed and discovered it was a straight one on a horse paying 30 to 1. The general collected $600, for the horses's name was "Excuse Me."

There's a young golf pro on the Pacific Coast who can drive with any player in the game. His name is Elmer Vice and he is the pro at Midwick. The second hole at his club is 328 yards from the tee, but twice in one week he sent his tee shot on the green.

He has been on the edge of the 300-yard fourteenth several times and regularly drives a terrifying lake up on the sixteenth, which requires a carry of over 200 yards. He is only a youngster, recently promoted from the caddy ranks, and if he turns to playing more than teaching he will be a first ranking star.

He has done the par 71 Midwick course in 66 and last week compiled a 67 with little effort. He seems ready to show his elders something about the game.

PETER JOSEPH DONOHUE seems to have come to the end of the major league baseball trail due to an unconditional release from two clubs, one in each league.

The big Texan has at least two claims to fame in the national game. He jumped right to the big show from a college team and he is one of the very few baseball players whose name really is Peter. Scores of players here and there are called "Pete" but not many sign their checks "Peter."

Donohue, who won many more games than he lost in his ten years in the majors, went to the Cincinnati Reds from Texas Christian University just before he reached his majority. He was with the Redlegs until last year when he was traded to the New York Giants.

When the Giants released him this season he caught on with the Cleveland Indians, but his [illegible] work did not satisfy the American Leaguers and now he may have a chance to see the minors.

Most players start in the minors, some of them go to the majors and then return to the minors. If Donohue continues to pitch, he will reverse the process.

Pitchers seem to have a better chance to make the long jump from college or semi-pro ranks than players who take care of the other positions. Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox, another Texas collegian (Baylor) has seen the minors only from the outside. There is a difference of only a month in these two pitchers' ages, but Donohue went to the National League two years before Lyons entered the American.

Another pitcher-collegian, Jonathan Thompson Zachary, from Guilford College, North Carolina, never has played minor league ball and probably he never will. All efforts to send "Old Tom" out of fast company have failed, and he is today the best pitcher with the Boston Braves.

The 34-year-old lefthander needs more rest now than he did a few years ago, but when he is ready to pitch he is hard to hit. He has played with three American League clubs and one National League outfit officially.

Eppa Rixey, a fair southpaw at 40, has done all his pitching for Philadelphia and Cincinnati, going to the Phillies from the University of Virginia in 1912 and transferring to the Reds in 1921. He, too, was counted out of the reckoning, but just the other day he pitched a remarkable game.

The most conspicuous graduate of sandlot baseball direct to the majors is George Uhle, the Detroit pitcher and bridge expert. Uhle advanced from the semipro ranks of Cleveland, his home town, to the major league team representing the city and remained there with good results until he was traded to Detroit after the 1928 season. He has had much trouble with his arm but he still can pitch.

Eddie Collins, who has retired from active play after a quarter of a century, was never a minor leaguer, although he was loaned to Newark, of the International League, by the Athletics for a week in 1907.

There are a few others, such as Bib Falk and Luke Sewell, of Cleveland, and Melvin Ott, of the Giants, who have always been major leaguers, but not many.

Frankhouse Wins Fifth In Row, Downs Phils, 4-2

Boston, July 5 (A.P.).—Fred Frankhouse won his fifth straight game today as the Braves defeated the Phillies, 4 to 2. Benge accounted for the Phillies' only runs in the second with a double. Red Worthington evened the score in the Braves' half of the same frame with a home run with a man on. Earl Sheely drove in the other Braves' runs in the fifth.

EASTON CLUB WINS.

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., July 5.—Easton played rings around the Vanderver Athletic Club, of Wilmington, Del., today, defeating them by a score of 11 to 1, making three straight games won from them. Carter was in the box for Easton and pitched fine ball and was given good support. Banging, for Easton, carried off the batting honors. With four times up he was given a pass, made two singles and a home-run drive over left field with two on bases. West started on the mound for the visitors and was knocked out of the box in the first inning. Smith relieved him, but fared nearly as bad.

INDIANHEAD CARDS WIN.

The Indianhead Cardinals took both ends of their double-header with the Anacostia Eagles at Indianhead yesterday, winning by scores of 8-7 and 10-9. Alexander, first man to come to bat in the ninth inning of the second game, won the fray with a long home run to left field.

WHITE HAVEN ON TOP.

White Haven yesterday took the measure of the Mount Pleasant tossers by a score of 9-7 in a closely contested game. Dyer and Collier socked homers for the winners, the latter's coming in the seventh inning with two men to clinch the game.

Jack Quinn, Celebrating 46th Birthday, Wins for Brooklyn

Holds Giants Scoreless for 3 Innings in 4-3 Victory.

BROOKLYN, July 5 (A.P.).—Jack Quinn today celebrated his forty-sixth birthday by winning the official victory over the New York Giants, whom he held hitless for the last three innings of a game which Brooklyn won in the ninth, 4 to 3.

Luque, the Brooklyn starting pitcher, was removed in the seventh after Ott's home run with one on climaxed a sixth inning rally for New York. Brooklyn won in the ninth on hits by Frederick and Herman, a pass to Bissonette, and O'Doul's liner to the outfield.

The victory gave the Robins a clean sweep of their three-game

FRED MARBERRY.

Phil Todt and Jim Moore, looked more like the men they had relieved, however, both popping to Myer.

Joe Kuhel and Roy Spencer did two-thirds of the Nat hitting, cracking out two hits each, one of the former's being the only local extra-baser of the game—a double to right. Buddy Myer was the real hero, however, as it was his single which drove home Washington's first two runs and which enabled his team to come from behind into a one-run lead. Cochrane added a single to his homer to take high-gun honors for the Elephants.

West Shines in Outfield.

Afield, Sam West covered acres of ground while handling seven chances, with nobby stops or catches also being turned in by Bluege, Manush and Cronin, for the Nationals, and by Miller and Simmons for the visitors.

One was out when Haas singled in the first to start the making of the first run of the game. Marberry wild-pitched him to second and put him in position to tally on Simmons' single. Two innings later the Nats not only matched this run but went their foes one better. Kuhel opened this third session with a double, all hands were safe on Williams' fumble of Spencer's grounder, both runners advanced on Marberry's suicide, and then Myer singled to left to empty the bases.

The Johnsons scored their two markers in the next canto with the need of but two hits, thanks to a pair of errors charged Foxx and Earnshaw on the same play. Cronin started the trouble by singling past Dykes, and West then rolled to Foxx. The latter fumbled the ball, giving West life, and Earnshaw then dropped the late peg, this permitting Cronin to carry on to third. Kuhel's fly to Miller was deep enough to let Cronin score after the catch. On the throw-in West went to second from where he was able to count on Spencer's single to left. Cochrane's homer accounted for the only other run of the game.

Except for the base-runners who scored, the Mackmen were able to get but three others as far as second and none to third, while Myer, who reached third twice, and Manush, who died on second in the fifth, were the only other Nats advancing past first.

WAKE OF GAME

IT will be up to Irving (Bump) Hadley to hurl the Nationals to their second consecutive victory over the Athletics when these pennant contending teams meet at Griffith Stadium this afternoon in the second of the three-game set. Victory, by the way, will enable the Washington club to pull up to a five-all tie on the season's play.

George (Rube) Walberg, one of the two star Mackian southpaws, is expected to do the slabbing for the visitors, with the other, Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, likely to do his stuff in the series-ender tomorrow unless he is called upon to finish out today.

Walberg has beaten the Nationals twice this season, while Hadley holds one victory over the Mackmen. Ever since he came to the majors, Bump has been generally effective against the world's champs and, if he performs as well as he did in his frequent sorties to the mound as relief flinger on the last Western trip, he stands a good chance of giving the Nats victory.

Jones to Return This Week.

Pitcher "Sad Sam" Jones is expected to rejoin the Nationals Wednesday or Thursday. Word was received from him yesterday that his mother, because of whose illness he was called to his home at Woodsfield, Ohio, died Saturday night. A large floral piece was ordered yesterday by the Washington players.

Sam West did considerable roaming around center in the first round. He hustled over toward left to rob Cochrane of a hit for the second out, and, after Simons had singled Haas home, ended the round by tearing over toward right for Foxx's looper.

Before play started, Dave Harris, ex-Greensboro sheriff, was called to the home plate and presented with a watch by a delegation from his home town.

Harry Rice did some fancy retrieving to hold Earnshaw's drive down the right field line to a single opening the third.

Myer called for the ball following Cochrane's single in the third, which sent Earnshaw from first to third, claiming that the Mackian pitcher had failed to touch second during his advance, but Umpire Brick Owens saw things differently.

Marberry's sacrifice bunt, which advanced Kuhel and Spencer in the third round, was a perfect one, Dykes having no chance for a play anywhere but at first. In the seventh, after Spencer had singled, the pitcher tried to give an encore, but popped to Cochrane.

Washington fans evidently were baseball hungry yesterday. The gates at the stadium were thrown open at 10 o'clock and 5,000 were on hand at noon, three hours before game-time. Delegations from as far South as High Point and Rocky Mount were on hand.

Two errors were charged on West's tap to Foxx in the fourth with Cronin on first at the time. Foxx fumbled the grasser, giving West life, and Earnshaw was charged with a "boot" when dropped Foxx's peg, letting Cronin continue on from second to third.

SCHMELING SEES BUT TWO REAL CHALLENGERS FOR TITLE

Champ Ranks Contenders For Crown

Sharkey and Carnera Rated Higher Than Stribling.

Schmeling, Germany Bound, May Defend Title in September.

By DIXON STEWART.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

NEW YORK, July 5 (U.P.).—Although admitting that there are at least two challengers—Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera—who probably would provide more strenuous competition than he encountered from W. L. (Young) Stribling in the first defense of his world's heavyweight title, Max Schmeling is confident that he is champion of the world in reality as well as in name.

Schmeling told the United Press today that he was certain he could defeat any of the current aspirants to the throne, and will welcome the opportunity to defend his honors against all contenders.

The German champion, stopping in New York for a brief visit before embarking for Germany, gave his ratings and opinion of rival heavyweights to the United Press as follows:

1. Jack Sharkey, "a good boxer and dangerous, but he does not hit hard enough to beat me."

2. Primo Carnera, "formidable because of his size and punching ability, but lacking in the boxing skill and ability to take punishment necessary for a champino."

3. Young Stribling, "a fine defensive boxer and hard hitter, but he lacks the true champion's ability to do his best work under pressure."

4. Tommy Loughran, "the best boxer of recent years, but no punch."

5. Mickey Walker, "has everything but the size. A champion at his own weight but not a match for front-rank heavies."

6. Vittorio Campolo, "strong and big, but slow."

8. Charley Retziaff, "the finest young prospect and, after he gains the necessary experience, my most likely successor."

Schmeling plans to defend his title again in September, but said he "doesn't care" who is selected for his opponent. The champion will sail for Germany late Monday night on the S. S. Nurpa, returning about August 1, or "whenever Joe Jacobs sends for me."

Jacobs and Schmeling are scheduled for a conference tomorrow with President W. F. Carey, of Madison Square Garden and Damon Runyan, representing the New York milk fund, which will share in the promotion of the September show.

May Meet Sharkey-Walker Bout Winner.

Jacobs revealed that although Schmeling's contract with the Garden calls for a bout with Primo Carnera, there is a possibility that the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Mickey Walker match, scheduled at Brooklyn late this month, may be substituted for the Italian.

"I understand Carnera has not fulfilled some of the requirements of his contract," said Jacobs. "There is a possibility that the Sharkey-Walker winner may be substituted. We don't care. The main thing that interests us is to get the best opponent and the fellow that will draw the most money."

Jacobs said that the boutp robably would be held either in Jersey City, Philadelphia or Chicago as Schmeling still is under suspension in New York.

"We will make no attempt to secure recognition from the New York commission," said Jacobs. "They can go their way and we'll go ours. The public knows who is the real champion and the New York board will make itself ridiculous if it attempts to set up a pretender to the throne.

"We feel that Max was auspended unfairly and it is up to the commission to make the first move toward reinstatement. Max is ready to defend the title against any man in the world and always has been. We preferred Stribling for the first defense because we thought his record entitled him to the bout."

There are musical sands in many parts of the world, but "Bell Hill" is the most unusual of all. When the sand is set in motion at the top of the hill, the sounds that follow closely resemble the music of distant chimes.

Similar music-producing sands are found in the "Barking Sands" of Hawaii.

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 5.—Entering the second week of the 30-day meeting at the popular Arlington Park course, a well balanced card of eight races, including a trio of allowance affairs, which will feature the card, a 2-mile steeplechase event and three claiming races for the cheaper grade of platers will complete the program.

The Mobile Purse, an $1,800 allowance event, over the 1-mile distance for 3-year-olds and upward, sixth on the card, will serve as the headliner. In this number seven high class equines will contest the purse. SISTER ZOE, fleet mare in the Four Oaks Farm stable, has shown speed at this distance and lightly weighted with 101 pounds, figures to outfoot her six rivals. WILLIAM T has trained well for his Chicago debut and may offer the opposition, while ULUNIU on his best effort, may get into the picture.

Only seven were named overnight in the Nashville allowance race, to be run as the fifth. At the 1-mile distance BATTLESHIP appears well suited by the conditions and should annex the purse. G. W. Foreman's NED O, displayed speed in his previous outing and off that effort will contest the issue. BOSAFABO has shown improvement and rates the show call.

FIRST RACE—The customary limit field of twenty was received in the opening dash, which is fashioned for maiden 2-year-olds at the 5½-furlong route. ZINA, from the O. Halvalsen string is favored to gratuate from the cheap group. COUSIN JUDY has had several races to recommend her and is given the place call, with PRECEDE as the show possibility.

SECOND RACE—Six bold fencers will contest the two miles of the Oconomowoc steeplechase, second event, under claiming conditions. The Mrs. F. A. Clark entry of CONTRITION and SWIVELLER, appear best of the four others. Chief opposition should be furnished by AUTUMN BELLS. This hedge topper finished second to CONTRITION last start and should go as well here. ACROBATE II has trained briskly for his seasonal debut and is in the show choice.

THIRD RACE—An even dozen three-year-old platters will face the barrier in the six furlongs of the third. CAMP PRINCE has raced with better company than he meets here and should romp to an easy victory. EGYPT, from Mrs. J. D. Hertz's establishment has shown improvement recently and figures to force the pace. PROCESSION displayed a high turn of speed to win his debut, but against this field only rates the minor award.

FOURTH RACE — OSCILLATION, clever juvenile in the Longridge stable, scored easily in her last start, and appears best of the thirteen fillies which will oppose her in the five furlongs of the Duluth purse. This event will be contested under allowance conditions. GENERAL ADVANCE, owned by the Middleburg stable, raced well in her New York campaign, and should finish in the runner-up position.

SEVENTH RACE—In the mile-and-a-quarter of the seventh race, thirteen platers have been entered to contest the purse. WORKLESS has shown the most consistent form of the band and is given the call. CHARLES CLARK, a stout finisher, will favor the long route and should gain the place.

EIGHTH RACE—Another group of thirteen platers will be dispatched over the mile-and-a-quarter route of the eighth event. LILLIAN T, from the Lone Star stable, appears well-suited by the conditions and should lead from start to finish. SEARINGTON has raced well in recent efforts and is the one to fear.

CELTICS WIN, 3-2, FROM SAILORS

Hamilton's Single in 12th Ends Duel of McIntire, Owens.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 5.—A dashing, light-haired youngster, tagged Joe Hamilton, elbowed his way into the limelight this afternoon when he crashed a stinging single to center field to drive across the run that gave the St. Mary's Celtics a 3-to-2 decision over Naval Hospital, of Washington, in a twelve-inning battle at Baggett's Park.

The blow decided one of the most brilliant pitching contests seen here in many years, with "Lefty" McIntire, former Milwaukee American Association twirler, now a member of the Celtics' sterling staff, and Lem Owen, former Hartford Eastern League ace and one-time Nemesis of all Alexandria unlimited diamond aggregations.

Russell Kidwell, the Celtics' diminutive backstop, was stamping restlessly up and down the runway between second and third by virtue of a base on balls and a perfect sacrifice bunt by McIntire when Hamilton leaned back and shot one of Owen's shoots over second base to ring down the curtain.

The Green and Gold's tiny catcher also scored the first run of the battle after drawing a free ticket to first base in the second inning. With one down Kidwell walked and came home on McIntire's double to deep left field and the southpaw pitcher dented the rubber on Hamilton's single.

Naval Hospital Ties Score.

Naval Hospital evened the count in the sixth inning after McIntire fanned the first two batters to face him, Isert's single sending Thrift and Patterson across the counting block. McIntire then ended the inning by striking out Caspar and the score remained deadlocked at 2-all until the twelfth rolled around and made a hero out of Hamilton.

McIntire held the aliens to seven hits, all but two of which were scattered at safe intervals throughout the battle. Those two he could not separate were injected into the Gobs' scoring spree in the sixth. In addition he struck out nine batters.

McIntire, Hamilton and Langford led the Celtics at bat with two hits apiece, one of the former's going for two bases, while Thrift obtained three hits for Naval Hospital.

The game was the third of the five-game series between the two teams, in which the Celtics now hold two wins. The fourth contest will be played here within the next few weeks.

Pattison, Myer Winners In Manor Club Golf Play

Beat Garrity, Thomson for Two-Man Team Title; Tribal Bowl Final Reached at Indian Spring; Other Golf Results.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

A LARGE gallery yesterday afternoon followed the final round in the two-man team competition, which has been in progress at the Manor Club during the past four weeks. The ending of the match, resulting in a victory for J. R. Pattison and Mack Myer, as against Ray F. Garrity, president of the club, and D. L. Thomson, chairman of the golf committee, furnished a real thrill, ending as it did on the nineteenth hole.

At the turn the opponents were all even, but Pattison and Myer forged ahead and were apparently sure winners when they were 2 up and 2 to play. However, Garrity and Thomson won the seventeenth and eighteenth holes and squared the match. On the nineteenth hole, the first on the woods nine and a par 5, Myer putted from a distance of 10 feet for a birdie 4, but missed it, easily holing out in a par 5. Thomson, who had played 4 and was about the same distance from the cup, putted and missed, the two-man team championship going to Pattison and Myer.

Three Tied in Putting Contest.

A series of events kept the Manor Club golfers interested throughout yesterday. The men's putting contest resulted in a triple tie between C. H. Gerner, D. M. McPherson and J. F. Victory, each with 37 putts for eighteen holes; J. A. Cosgrove and C. A. Metzler, each with 39 putts, finishing in second place. The women's putting contest was won by Mrs. J. T. Powell, with 38 putts, Mrs. H. T. Titeman and Mrs. Mack Myer tying for second with 40 putts.

A blind bogey competition was also on the program. The first lucky number was 71, and this resulted in a quadruple tie between S. M. Grogan, 89—18—71; R. McC. Clayton, 84—13—71; H. E. Patton, 93—22—71, and J. F. Ebert, 91—20—71. The second winning number was 80 and H. W. Offutt, 104—24—80, was the winner. The third lucky number was 77, and this developed an octuple tie, as follows: D. L. Thomson, 87—10—77; W. E. Detweiler, 102—25—77; George F. Miller, 80—3—77; C. W. Schafer, 92—15—77; J. C. Rutter, 92—15—77; W. F. Byrne, 93—16—77; E. J. Carver, 87—10—77, and Dwight N. Burnham, 90—13—77.

Belshe, Curtis in Final At Indian Spring.

The final round in the competition for the Tribal Bowl at the Indian Spring Club will be played next Sunday between T. M. Belshe and W. Byrn Curtiss. In the semi-final round yesterday, Belshe defeated George C. Gist, 2 and 1, and Curtiss defeated Leo F. Pass, 2 and 1.

In the sweepstakes tournament at the Indian Spring Club yesterday, eighteen holes, medal play, handicap, no scores were turned in by class A players. In class B the winner was D. M. McNeale, with a card of 95—15—80. In class C the winners were Robert Brownell, 99—20—79; W. W. Curtiss, 103—20—83, and Maj. Davison, 119—27—92.

A "ringer" tournament which began last Saturday on the course of the Washington Golf & Country Club and which continued throughout yesterday, with no limit on the number of holes played, was won by Samuel J. Roberts, who had a best ball of 70 for three rounds. His handicap of eighteen gave him a net 52. For the second prize there was a tie between Joseph Jordan, 77—21—56, and Capt. W. J. Clear, 68—12—56.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

BEFORE a crowd of 3,000 dyed-in-the-wool sandlot fans who grouped themselves around the South Ellipse diamond, Saks Clothiers gained the lead in section B, unlimited class, of The Post's Capital City League with an easy 10-3 victory over Capitol Heights. The win assured Saks of at least a tie with their victims for the title, with the possibility of winning it outright by defeating the Army Medicos when they clash next Sunday. Yesterday's game was the final Capital City eLague contest for the Heights team. The Army Medicos game with Foxall scheduled for yesterday was postponed until a later date.

In section A, Columbia Heights concluded its season with a thrilling 10-9 decision over Ciro's Italian Villagers, and Congress Heights bumped the Griffith-Blue Coals by a 15-7 margin to wind up its Capital City League season. The latter two teams were scheduled to meet again next Sunday, but the game will not be played. St. Joseph's fray with the champion Dixie Pigs was postponed until next Sunday.

Hutchinson Off Form.

Eddie Hutchinson, who had hurled Capital Heights to its seven league victories, was way off form yesterday. His wildness forced him from the mound in the second inning with Saks leading by four runs. Charley Mannix, Notre Dame University star, who twirled for the Clothiers, was in rare form limiting his opponents to six hits and coasting in to an easy victory behind the heavy slugging of his mates. Mannix also connected for a pair of safties in three appearances at the plate.

Three other Saks players had important roles in their teams' triumph. Joe Mulhall handled nine chances at shortstop without a miscue; Curry, third baseman, socked a double with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to put the game in the bag, and Sammy Hook, Mannix's battery mate, handled the big hurler in such a manner as to evoke praise from spectators along the sidelines.

The Villagers scored seven runs in the seventh inning of their game with Columbia Heights to briefly assume the lead. Columbia responded with three in their half and one in the eighth to gain the decision. Jake Lewis got four out of five to lead both teams at bat.

THE Wonder Bread and Spengler Midgets remain deadlocked for the leadership of the midget section of the Capital City League as a result of their victories yesterday over the Georgetown and National Pale Dry teams, respectively. The Wonders won by a score of 21-8, and Spengler by a 7-4 margin. The Shade Shop forfeited to the Samosets, throwing the four tail-enders into a tie for third place, with one victory and two losses each.

McConnell's hitting and Nichols' hurling featured the Breadmen's win. McConnell connected for five hits in six trips to the plate, while Nichols held the losers to a couple of safe blows.

Dick Cullins, who pitched Spengler to victory, was hit hard, allowing nine bingles, but he had control of the situation in the pinches and managed to survive. Gregorio for Spengler and Gotsis for the Nationals enjoyed good days at bat with a brace of hits apiece in four appearances at the plate.

Del Ray Triumphs, 2-1; Curtiss Wins in Duel

Alexandria, Va., July 5.—Three successive singles in the second inning, scoring two runs, gave the Del Ray Red Birds a 2-to-1 victory over the Virginia White Sox at Bailey Crossroads today. Ritnour's home run in the fourth was the only run produced by the White Sox.

Curtiss allowed no hits after the fourth and was never in danger thereafter. Successive singles in the second were manufactured from the bats of Beach, Genamere and Yarter. Beach proved the big gun for the Del Rayans, getting two other singles. Hamilton pitched a beautiful game for the losers, striking out seven of the Red Birds.

NEXT LAUREL FIGHT DATE JULY 15

Hunt vs. Gallagher or Heeney Is Plan at Nearby Ring.

HAVING performed impressively in his debut before Midcity Boxing Club patrons at Laurel, Md., Friday night, "Babe" Hunt, hard-hammering Midwestern heavyweight, is expected to again headline that club's activities in another all-star presentation at the Maryland arena July 15.

Promoter Angy Gerrin, who staged a well-rounded and praiseworthy card in his initial venture, last night announced that negotiations were under way to sign either Marty Gallagher or Tom Heeney as Hunt's opponent for that date.

Hunt, Friday night, proved himself to be even better than advance notices tabbed him. He has size, grace and punch, can box when the occasion demands and handles himself with the agility of a lightweight.

Weimer in Line For Action.

It was originally intended to hold another show Wednesday night. After considerable deliberation, however, Midcity officials yesterday decided to spend the next ten days lining up a series of bouts that will outclass anything pugilistic ever offered in this vicinity.

Due to Friday night's surprising performance, which resulted in three knock-downs and ultimately a knockout of "Mickey" Sullivan, Herman Weiner, Baltimore heavyweight, likely will win himself a choice spot on the next booking.

In the meantime more improvements on the already handsome and strictly up-to-date stadium, just outside of Laurel and 1 mile toward Baltimore, will be made before the next fight night rolls around.

DANGERS OF SHOOTING GALLERIES.

It has been found that men who run successful shooting galleries are likely to develop mercury poisoning. Reports to that effect are coming from both America and Europe.

The ammunition used in shooting galleries, particularly the percussion caps, contains a considerable amount of a mercury salt, and it seems that a tendency of the trade is to increase the proportion of this ingredient in explosives. When the cartridge explodes some of this mercury goes into the air as smoke. The dust in a shooting gallery contains considerable mercury. The places are nearly always badly ventilated.

There is usually a long, narrow room, at one end of which are the targets, well illuminated. At the other is the shooting counter. The man who tends the place loads the rifles, handles the ammunition, cares for the targets and the lighting generally, stands to one side and behind the counter. The smoke travels into his breathing zone and there are no air currents or fans to move it away. Furthermore, his hands are generally soiled, some poison is carried to his mouth when he handles his cigar, cigarette, pipe, chewing tobacco or gum, or when he eats his snack in the gallery without first washing his hands. However, the principal route of absorption is through the lungs.

Prevention presents no great difficulties. An electric fan, so placed as that it draws the smoke up toward the ceiling and away from the attendant and the customers, would meet most of the need. There should be some hand-washing facilities. The attendant should not handle his lunch, his smokes or his chews without first washing his hands. In some places a vacuum cleaner, used faithfully, would improve appearances, make the gallery more attractive and lessen the danger to patrons and attendants.

In the lead industry it has been found advisable to forbid eating in the workshop or elsewhere without first washing the hands. In such places it is sometimes advisable to prohibit chewing and smoking. It may be best for the attendants at shooting galleries to give up the use of tobacco, especially during working hours. However, since inhaling rifle smoke is the principal danger, the most important method of prevention is ventilation.

WHAT CAUSES HEARTBURN.

A. writes:

1. Is there any cure for appendicitis besides operation?
2. What is the cause of heartburn?

REPLY.

1. Chronic appendicitis rarely calls for operation. Many cases of acute appendicitis get well spontaneously. Fasting, quiet in bed, and cold packs locally applied are of service. Good surgical judgment is required for a decision as to which cases are to be operated.

2. Among the causes of heartburn are infection of gall bladder, gall stones, ulcers, cancer, adhesions, constipation, faulty diet, wrong eating habits, and perhaps chronic appendicitis.

PREVENTIVE OF DANDRUFF.

F. N. writes: What is the best way to prevent dandruff and falling hair?

REPLY.

Keep the scalp clean and as greasy as it should be, but not more so. Brush the hair frequently and well. Wear light, loose hats only. Select a hairy father.

LIE DETECTOR TRIPS WITH NEW CHANCE

Suspect Usually Is Unable to Suppress Internal Surge in Him.

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—Leonarde Keeler's lie-detector gives its suspects a second chance.

When the detector, which, records breathing and heart action, registers a surge of emotion that the lips have belied, the suspect is told exactly what the recording needles have done.

He is set before them again, with his eyes upon the tell-tale parts, to repeat his answers and see whether, forewarned, he can suppress the internal surge—the holding of breath, or perhaps its involuntary quickening, and the change in his pulse.

Usually he can not.

Still Young Man.

Keeler, a psychologist, graduate of Stanford University, still in his middle twenties, is center of the Chicago scientific crime detection laboratory.

"A single test of ten or fifteen minutes is usually sufficient to ascertain the guilt or innocence of a suspect," he says. "If the suspect is determined guilty he is subjected to more questioning. At the completion of the initial test he is shown his record, which is carefully explained to him.

"For the second test the guilty man is seated so he can watch the needle.

"The guilty individual now knows the machine recorded his lies and that, if unable to control his responses during the second test, he surely will prove guilty.

"His added effort to control his responses, as he sees them appear on the record will cause greater disturbance.

"On completion of the second test, or one or two subsequent tests, above 75 per cent of the guilty confess."

Unexpected Events Shown.

Sometimes the detector shows up unexpected events in a person's past. Two traveling men, arrested in Wisconsin for bank robbery, proved to be not guilty.

The Keeler lie-detector helped in the exoneration. But emotionless to robbery questions, one of the salesmen showed a "jump" at the apparently harmless question:

"Did you attend college?"

It turned out that he alone of all his fellow salesmen was not a college man, but on his application for employment he had falsified, claiming to be a graduate.

Mongrel Dog Is Honored.

Dickenson, Mont., July 5 (U.P.).—Jiggs, a mongrel dog, has been recommended by the National Antivivisection Society for decoration as a life saver. The dog belongs to Eddie Scheeler and is credited with saving the life of Raymond Kuhn, who was in danger of drowning.

Bridge Arch Forms Farms.

Payson, Ariz., July 5 (U.P.).—Arizona's oddest farm is a five-acre piece forming the top of the arch of Goodfellow's Natural Bridge in the colorful district north of Roosevelt Dam. The soil of the farm is good. The bridge is 180 feet high and has a wall to wall spread of 250 feet.

CHINESE SMUGGLE RUSSIAN PRODUCTS

Commodities Moscow Denies Its Own People Sneaked Back in Siberia.

Harbin, Manchuria, July 5 (A.P.).—Smuggling with a reverse English is one of the outgrowths of the strong effort which Russia is making to oust American, British and Japanese trade from this growing region of northwest China.

The smuggling is not due to the fact that Manchuria has put high duties on Russian goods. The border jumpers find their profits in sneaking Russian manufactured articles back into Siberia, for many of these products are not on sale in Russia's own territory.

Sold Ridiculously Low.

The traffic gets its impetus from the fact that goods produced in Russia are sold here at ridiculously low prices in order to cut under the merchandise coming from other countries.

And the canny Chinese take advantage of this by clandestine distribution to Soviet citizens of many articles which the Moscow policy denies to its own people.

The Soviet baking and candy syndicate has practically captured the local market with its cookies and sweets. Cotton goods from Russia are selling 25 per cent lower than British and Japanese textiles.

American Cut Under.

The same is true of tobacco, rubber products and oil which Russia sells here at less than the British and American companies can afford to offer. Soviet lumber and coal undersell the same products produced by the cheap native labor in Manchuria.

But British, American and other foreign interests are fighting to maintain their business. Staid old British firms which once frowned on large-scale advertising as undignified are now carrying full page displays in the dailies and American concerns have increased their advertising budgets despite the situation created by the slump in silver.

Mostly Men in Oregon.

Salem, Oreg., July 5 (U.P.).—Men outnumber women in Oregon. Of the state's 953,786 population, 499,672 are males and 454,114 are females, or 110 men per 100 women.

3 ROBBER SUSPECTS, REFUSED ENTRANCE, BEAT ELEVATOR MAN

Hill Building Employe Says Leader Sought Way to Credit Firm Office.

VICTIM IS FOUND LYING UNCONSCIOUS IN LOBBY

Gang Chief Makes First Visit Alone and Brings Two Aids at Second Call.

Because he refused to allow three strangers to enter the offices of the Commercial Credit Co. in the Hill Building, Seventeenth and I streets northwest, yesterday afternoon, Hardy Harris, elevator operator, who lives at 208A Bates street northwest, was severely beaten and left in an unconscious condition in the lobby of the building.

He was found shortly afterward and taken to Emergency Hospital, where his condition was undetermined.

According to the story Hardy told police, he was accosted Saturday afternoon by a neatly dressed man about 30 years old, who said he wanted to enter room 506, the office of the Commercial Credit Co.

Return Is Threatened.

Hardy said he refused to open the office as the man would give no information as to his business or who he was. He left and said he would be back again, Hardy told police.

The man returned yesterday afternoon, accompanied by two other men, and told Hardy to take them to the fifth floor. While in the elevator, Hardy said, he became suspicious and hid the keys in his sock.

Arriving at the fifth floor, the men demanded that he open the office. He refused to do so, and pushed the elevator door shut with a stick. The men, said Hardy, became enraged and beat him with the stick until he lapsed into unconsciousness. He said he did not know how he reached the lobby where he was found.

Band Drives Off in Car.

Witnesses who were outside at the time said they saw three men rush out of the building and jump into a touring car and start up Connecticut avenue.

Two of the men, Hardy told police were not as neatly dressed as the third, both wearing dark shirts and being from 20 to 25 years old.

Police said last night that Harris was beaten badly under almost similar circumstances a year ago. They said this assault was perpetrated on June 27, 1930, while he was working as an elevator operator at the Munsey Building.

Peter Arno Disappears With Mrs. Sidney Smith

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—Whereabouts of Peter Arno, the artist whose reported altercations with Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., enlivened Reno for several days, were undetermined tonight.

Scheduled to arrive in Chicago today from Reno, where he lost a divorce contest to his wife, Lois Long, Arno did a disappearing act at suburban Wheaton, according to the conductor. Mrs. Florence Rice Smith, divorced wife of Sidney Smith, New York broker, and daughter of Grantland Rice, sports writer, left the train with Arno, the conductor said.

Woman Found Drowned After Quiz in Poisonings

New London, Wis., July 5 (A.P.).—Twenty-four hours after she was questioned by District Attorney Lloyd Smith concerning the poison deaths of her husband and one of his friends, Mrs. Catherine Hoffman, 35, was found drowned in the river near here today.

Toxicologists said the men died from poison administered in liquor. Edward Riske, New London, was held in jail tonight at Waupaca wihtout charge. He was questioned yesterday with Mrs. Hoffman, and Mr. and Mrs. Forest Poppy, who attended the dance.

No Cake, So German Soldiers Eat Bread

Berlin, July 4 (A.P.).—Reichswehr soldiers will in future miss a distinctive feature of their week-end, their Sunday cake. It will be replaced by prosaic bread.

The German government made this attack on the army menu as part of its program of economy.

Caves Bring Town Fame.

Rodez, July 5 (U.P.).—The recent discovery, in this litle community in the department of Aveyron in the French Midi, of great natural caves has proved of great interest to geologists in all parts of Europe. Two great natural chambers replete with a magnificient variety of stalactites and stalagmites have placed the little city of Rodez on the geological map of France.

Centenarian Weds From Cot.

Melbourne, July 5 (U.P.).—Robert Stevens, 101, an inmate of a benevolent home, was carried into a ward on a cot to marry a spinster aged 68.

Lifer, Pseudo Golfer, Holes Out of Jail in 1

Joliet, Ill., July 5 (A.P.).—Arthur Miller, 33, serving life for murder, holed out of the Illinois State Penitentiary yesterday in one.

Alone in the office of Warden Henry C. Hill, Miller, a trusty, spied a complete golf outfit belonging to the warden's son, Philip.

He changed clothes, then, lugging a bag of clubs, he walked out. He successfully negotiated a number of hazards in the form of guards who later explained they thought he was a golfer who had sliced a shot into the penitentiary grounds.

BROTHERS ARE HURT WHEN TAXI HITS CAR

Visitors From Erie, Pa., Are Taken to Hospital; One Seriously Injured.

Two brothers, Fourth of July visitors to the city, were injured, one seriously, when a taxicab sideswiped their machine on Fourteenth street northwest, near Clifton, as they were arranging their luggage on it preparatory to beginning their homeward trip.

The injured men are James Suddarth, 32, and Thomas Suddarth, 28, both of Erie, Pa., who had been visiting friends who live near the scene of the accident. The former was dragged about 30 feet, police said, by the taxicab, which was driven by Leonard Gray, colored, 24, of Roth street northwest, near Eighth, and pinned between the cab and a parked car.

Thomas Suddarth was knocked down by the impact of the cab. Both were taken to Emergency Hospital by a passing motorist, where it was said the older Suddarth was suffering from several fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. His condition was said to be serious last night. The younger of the brothers suffered a fractured left ankle and body bruises.

Gray was arrested by Second Precinct police and held pending the outcome of the injuries of the brothers.

Neighbor Helps Save Man Overcome by Gas

Reed Leadman, 40 years old, was overcome by gas yesterday in his home on Thirty-fourth street near Q street northwest. He was revived by the fire rescue squad, which was summoned by Clarence Zimmer, a neighbor, who found Leadman in the kitchen of his home, with gas pouring from a kitchen range. He was attracted by the odor of gas.

Leadman, after being revived, was treated by a private physician.

MANCHURIA PLANS MACTH MONOPOLY

Government Factories to Be Opened to Take Business of Japan and Soviet.

Peiping, July 4 (U.P.).—Following the example of several European countries, Manchuria has instituted a match monopoly in the northeastern provinces, under direction of the Northeastern Political Affairs committee.

A bureau has been created through which matches are sold, and sale is prohibited except through the bureau. Government factories are being planned, and until they are operating the bureau will buy matches from private Chinese and foreign companies.

If a sufficient supply can be obtained from Chinese companies, imports will be stopped.

The Manchurian match monopoly probably will create a good deal of friction. Japanese and Soviet Russian matches have flooded Manchuria and North China recently. Soviet matches are sold so cheaply that other companies are unable to supply matches of the same quality in competition.

It is considered unlikely that the Japenese in south Manchuria and the Russians in north Manchuria will accept the monopoly. Official protests are improbable, but the monopoly's existence may be disregarded.

Cowman Lassoes Bear.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 5 (U.P.).—Calf roping will be a tame affair for Floyd Lee Maddox of Hidalgo County, who came across a bear which had killed two sheep. He undid his lariat, roped the animal and dragged it to death. His story is vouched for in an affidavit to the State game warden after suit for killing a bear out of season was under consideration. Maddox stated he killed the bear to protect the live stock.

Pupil Traveled 54 Miles a Day.

Ben Hill, Ga., July 5 (U.P.).—Marcia Campbell, 18-year-old Ben Hill girl, wanted to go to Fulton High School, Atlanta, and for four long years she did so, living here but commuting a total of 54 miles every day. Not once during those four years was she absent or tardy, and when she was graduated this spring her friends figured up she had traveled a total of 56,160 miles.

Scout Saved From Water After Salute

Joseph Wilson, 13-year-old Boy Scout, of 617 Jefferson street northwest, was safe in his bed at home last night after an adventure of patriotism which might have cost him his life.

The boy was riding in a large motorboat late yesterday afternoon with a party of visitors returning from Capt Roosevelt, Boy Scout Camp in Maryland.

A steamer passed by with the national emblem displayed and, remembering their lessons on Independence Day and filled with the spirit of patriotism, some of the boys in the party suggested that the flag should be saluted.

When Joseph leaped up to comply with the suggestion he lost his balance and toppled into the water. The boy had learned to swim a little as part of his course of instruction at the camp and managed to keep afloat until Warren Hazard, director of boating at the camp, leaped in after him. Both were pulled ashore by other members of the party.

Joseph was returned to his home and sent to bed early, but his mother said he apparently suffered no ill effects from his ducking.

MORE MEAT ASKED ON TABLES OF U. S.

Livestock Industry Backs Campaign to Increase the Demand.

Chicago, July 4 (A.P.).—The livestock industry is resorting to ballyhoo in efforts to increase demand for meat.

A nation-wide drive, with "eat more meat" as its slogan, has been projected to stimulate one of agriculture's most important branches.

A series of public demonstrations in large cities throughout the country is planned for this summer. Banners will display the fact that meats are cheaper than they have been for years, and cattle, sheep and hogs will be exhibited in parades.

Decision to publicize the cheapness of meats was reached at a Chicago meeting of livestock producers, packers, bankers, railroad men and other industrial leaders.

Charles D. Carey, chairman of the national livestock and meat board, struck the keynote of the gathering when he said:

"Cattle are now selling at prices 50 per cent below those of two years ago, bringing a return of less than 75 per cent of the cost of production.

"Calling the attention of the public to the fact that meat prices are currently 33 per cent below prices prevailing at the first of the year, we would stimulate consumption and return the livestock and servicing industries to a profitable position."

Thomas E. Wilson, packer and vice president of the board, said consumption of meat and lard now is 25 pounds per capita under that of 1907, and about 5 pounds under that of 1924.

Merely by returning the use of meat to the level of 1924, he said, would mean an increase in demand of a billion pounds a year, and the return of satisfactory conditions for the industry.

ATTUCKS MONUMENT IS ADVOCATED HERE

Negro Patriot Honored at Mass Meeting Held at New Masonic Temple.

Tribute to soldiers of all wars was paid yesterday at the new Masonic Temple, Tenth and U streets northwest, at a mass meeting, having as its object the perpetuation of the memory of Crispus Attucks, Negro patriot, who fell on Boston Common under British fire in 1770. A monument has been erected there to his memory.

The mass meeting proposed, through a series of resolutions, to organize a movement, especially in Pennsylvania, New York and the District of Columbia, for erection of Attucks monuments as evidence of gratitude of the American people for service of the Negro in critical periods of the Nation's history.

Dr. S. P. W. Drew, wno made the principal address, stated that such a monument should be placed near the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia. He secured signers of a petition to be sent to Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, and Mayor Mackey, of Philadelphia, seeking their interest in the movement. Other petitions were signed, to be forwarded to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and to the President and Congress, eliciting further sympathetic interest in erection of Attucks monuments here and in New York.

Other addresses were made by the Rev. J. N. Beaman, Bishop Isaiah P. Brooks, Dr. Edward Johnson and the Rev. J. H. Curtis, officers of the Council of Ministers and Laymen and the Civic and Welfare Alliance.

Two Gas Stations Are Robbed of $36

Sneak-Thieves Blamed for Losses While Employes Work Outside.

Sneak thieves robbed the cash registers at two gasoline stations yesterday while attendants were engaged in tasks outside the establishments.

Alton Reigle, 18, of Landover, Md., employed at the Avalon Service Station, South Dakota avenue and Bladensburg road northeast, reported to police that early yesterday morning $24.51 was taken from the cash register at the station while he was outside. He was detained for questioning by Twelfth Precinct police for several hours, but was later released.

The second filling station robbed was a Gulf Refining Co. branch at Florida avenue and Porter street, northeast. Charles G. Bowman, manager, told Second Precinct police that shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon he returned to the office after selling a motorist some gas and found a small colored boy, who asked him for change for a dollar. Later he found that about $12 had been taken from the cash register.

Marines to Lead Carnival Parade

St. Gabriel's Church Fair Will Be Opened by March Tonight.

United States marines will lead and close the parade for St. Gabriel's Church carnival tonight along Georgia avenue from Quincy to Farragut streets.

Lieut. Col. J. J. Staley, adjutant general of the Marine Reserves and commanding officer of the Sixth Brigade, has consented to act as grand marshal of the parade if his duties do not conflict. In event he is unable to take part he will designate Maj. Harvey L. Miller, of the staff, to act in his place.

The end of the parade will find Private "Jimmie" Dugan, local radio artist, a member of Col. Staley's command, at the keyboard of the calliope. In addition to the marines many organizations in uniform will take part.

Police Asked to Locate Girl.

Police were asked yesterday to locate Miss Christine Wood, 20, who has been missing from her home at 4211 E street southeast, since early on the night of July 4. Her father, Littenson Wood, of the E street address, made the report to the police. He said his daughter was of small stature, a brunette and weighed about 100 pounds.

PASTOR PREACHES ON "MAGNA CHARTA OF CHRISTIANITY"

The Rev. Harold Beatty Says Where Spirit of Lord Is There Is Liberty.

OUTLINES 3 MESSAGES RUNG BY "BIBLE BELLS"

Historic and Contemporary Incidents Used to Illustrate Sermon.

"The Christian's Magna Charta" was the subject chosen yesterday by the Rev. Harold Beatty, pastor of the Georgetown Evangelical Lutheran Church, for his sermon. The discourse, in part, follows:

"The bells! The bells! The golden bells! Don't you hear them ringing? Glory hallelujah, jubilee! The Jubilee-Bells—bigger than Big Ben in Westminster Clock Tower; bigger than the great bell in Peking, China, weighing 53 tons; bigger than the largest bell in the world, which is at Moscow, weighing 80 tons. And these Bible-Bells are older than those mentioned in Rome as early as 400 A. D.

"The first bell rung in the New World was swung in a church built in 1494 by Columbus on the Island of San Domingo. But the Jubilee-Bells rang at Creation, when the morning stars sang together.

"The Liberty Bell of July 4, 1776, sounded the note of the Declaration of Independence, America's Magna Charta, proclaiming 'Liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof.' But ringing in the Bible are the Bells of God, proclaiming the good news not only to the goodly land of America, but to all lands. 'Let the people praise Thee, O, God; let all the people praise Thee. Then shall the earth yield her increase, and God, even our own God, shall bless us, and all the ends of the earth shall fear Him.'

Regrets Tendency to Quit.

"The Magna Charta of the Scripture, the Christian's Declaration of Independence, is recorded by John in his Gospel, the eighth chapter, verses 31 and 32. 'If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.'

"In ringing the message of Christian freedom, this Bell of the Bible proclaims three things. First, endurance—continue ye; abide ye. 'Continue in My word.' Endurance is the order of the day. The endurance test, the endurance flight, the endurance everything. Gen. Joffre, the hero of the Marne, just before the terrible encounter said to his troops: 'A great battle is about to be fought. This is the high hour of decision. There is to be no retreat. March straight ahead, even unto death.' Today the program is endurance in almost everything except religion.

Recently a colored minister in Washington preached twelve hours in an endurance sermon. In a Western city another preacher preached 21 hours to break the record. Some newspapermen rather ridiculed the idea and condemned such a spectacular practice. And in the main the newspapermen are right in offering the protest, yet there is a most regrettable trend in the church to quit the job first as soon as the weather warms up, close up the Sunday schools, the evening services and the prayer meetings. 'He that endureth unto the end the same shall be saved.'

"What Truth Can Do."

"You recall the familiar incident of the drummer boy in one of Napoleon's campaigns, when in an hour, the battle seemed lost, the great commander said, 'Boy, beat a retreat.' 'Sire, I know not how. Desaix never taught me that, but I can beat a charge that will make the dead fall into line! I beat that charge at Lodi; I beat it at the Pyramids. Let me beat it now.' And without waiting for the word, he beat his charge, and over the dead and the wounded, over the breastworks and the batterymen he led the way to victory. Shall we not pay heed to the Voice of the Captain of our Salvation? 'If ye love Me keep My Commandments.'

"The second note sounded by the Scripture-Bell, in Christian's freedoom, is Truth. 'If ye continue in my word, ye shall know the Truth.' But what can Truth do? It can run! How fast? Somebody said that falsehood can run around the world while Truth is getting on her boots. That is not true. Not only is Truth a faster runner, Truth can fly! How fast? Today the world takes off her hat to Post and Gatty, but Truth flies faster than Winnie Mae! Light travels 186,000 miles per second, therefore going around the world seven and one-half times in a second. But Truth can beat that! Truth annihilates space and time. Listen to her voice! 'A thousand years in Thy sight are but as a watch in the night. A thousand years are as one day, and one day as a thousand years.'

Message of Bell Is Freedom.

"But what else can Truth do besides fly? Truth can beat the Devil. Truth can knock the Devil sprawling, clear of the ropes! Yes, it can! Then, with Pilate, many are still asking, 'What is Truth?' Would you like to have Truth? Lessing, the German philosopher, said that if some one should come to him with 'Truth' in one hand and 'search for the truth' in the other, he would choose the latter—Search for the Truth. But even if you find the Truth, what will it do for you? It will make you free.

"Therefore the third message of the Jubilee-Bell is freedom. In my first charge in the ministry I was invited one day to go see a young man in a hospital. I went, and as I stood by an invalid's wheel chair, I looked into a face, thin and pale and emaciated. The fire of rheumatism had seared every bone in his body. He was as helpless as an infant. Disease had locked his body in an absolute prison. But somewhere on the road of life he had met Jesus Christ; and he was therefore a free spirit. An intense suffered, but a cheerful soul.

"This morning, through the marvelous avenue of the Scripture, I enter a Roman prison and look upon the face of a man whose body is marked and scarred through the soldiery of the Cross. It is Saul of Tarsus. And he tells me that if any man will turn to the Lord, the veil of bondage and unbelief shall be taken away. 'And the Lord is that spirit, and where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.'"

THE ONCE OVER

AUCTIONING OFF THE MAY FLOWER.

(Washington, D. C.—For the second time, the presidential yacht Mayflower is to be put up at auction.—News item.)

AUCTIONEER—Now, then, what am I offered for this wonderful yacht being thrown on the market by Mr.—er, what's the name on the catalogue, Finkelbaum?

Finkelbaum (his assistant)—Hoover . . . Herbert Clark Hoover.

Auctioneer—You've all heard of Mr. Hoover, ladies and gentlemen. Now, what am I offered for his yacht? Remember, this vessel is the Mayflower, for 27 years the official pleasure craft of American Presidents, whether they liked it or not. How much to start her?

Voice—What's the matter with her?

Auctioneer—nothing at all, sir.

Voice—Then, why is Mr. Hoover giving her up?

Auctioneer—The catalogue contains no statement from Mr. Hoover, but I can say to you, one and all, that the presence of the boat in this sale is no reflection on the vessel. She will do anything the President asks of her, but she is a little too large to go up a trout stream. Mr. Hoover had the choice of giving up trouting or giving up yachting, that's all, and he chose to abandon the latter. Now, then, make me an offer.

Voice—Fifty dollars.

Auctioneer—Fifty dollars for the Mayflower! What are you thinking of, folks? Come on now and make me a decent offer. Where can you get a yacht in which six Presidents of the United States have been made miserable?

* * * *

GOVERNMENT REPRESTENTATIVE—May I say a word?

Auctioneer—Go ahead, sir.

Government Representative—Gentlemen, I want you to bear in mind that this is the Mayflower, the yacht that has carried our Presidents and statesmen for 27 years.

Voice—Maybe it only seemed 27 years.

Auctioneer—Tell 'em what it would cost to reproduce the boat.

Government Representative—Two hundred thousand dollars, heaven forbid!

* * * *

VOICE—I'll give you $100.

Auctioneer — You couldn't buy the life preservers on the Mayflower for $100.

Voice—I don't want 'em. Let the Republicans keep the life preservers; they'll need 'em.

Auctioneer—Why folks, this craft has a great history. She was in the Spanish-American War. She was ridden up San Juan Hill by Teddy Roosevelt. If the war had lasted he would have ridden her down. Later she was used for surfboard rides by Lieut. Hobson. In the World War she was used to give the dollar-a-year men official sunburns. And you offer me $100 for the satisfaction of cruising in a yacht like that!

Voice—I don't want her for cruising.

Auctioneer—What do you want her for?

Voice—I'm an antique collector!

* * * *

AUCTIONEER — Now gentlemen, let's talk sense; let's be fair. Where can you go and get a yacht on which a thousand congressmen have been guests?

Voice—That's what I'm afraid of. Some of 'em may still be on it.

EXTRA! WICKERSHAM COMMISSION AGREES!

The Wickersham Commission has disbanded, this action being the one thing on which it could agree.

LIFE being what it is, it is a reasonable bet that Messrs. Post and Gatty, who have just flown around the world in about eight days, were the kind of boys who as children were never allowed to leave the front yard.

The recent stock market boom may have been due to a belief on the part of the buyers that under the Hoover plan they wouldn't have to pay for them for a year.

"Hit by Auto Twice in Same Spot."—Headline. Oh, be precise!

ASKING THE IMPOSSIBLE.

A Massachusetts court has fined an autoist for letting a companion drive the car while intoxicated. The way all people drive cars these days, how can anybody be expected to tell when they're intoxicated?
